Japan Drops a Few Bombs.
What About Silver?
How Many Enterprises?
Will the Universe Die?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ASTRONOMERS LOOK into distant nebulae a few million "light years" and tell you how great suns are built up, to run their journeys through millions of years.

JAPAN IS using air bombs on the Chinese, effectively, showing us a miniature of the next war. Finding 6,000 armed Chinese in one convenient spot, Japan dropped bombs, and killed about 200, as a reminder that the next war will not be amusing.

CHINA CALLS the dead Chinese soldiers. Japan says they were bandits. That bombing annoys the Chinese, who say the League of Nations, that like B'rer Rabbit does and says nothing, is useless.

Russia is accumulating soldiers on the border, perhaps planning to take part in the Manchurian proceedings. That worries Japan. Russia, also, has devoted attention to the gentle art of dropping bombs. And Japan is a collection of houses that could be burned by tens of thousands, with fire bombs.

Before we know it, we may be out of a depression, and into a war.

SENATOR BORAH says:

"There is not enough gold in the world, not enough gold standard money to carry on the world's business, so we must have silver at 14 to 1."

And immediately a big gold strike is announced in Nevada.

F. E. Vassar and Leroy Mason found the gold ledge, 37 feet wide, and when the gold assayed $5,000 to the ton, they were too excited to keep their secret. A gold rush is on.

THE WISE MAN in the rush is an experienced gold camp restaurant-keeper, on his way, with the others, but only to cook. Says he:

"I'll get $3 for ham and eggs."

Something will be done about silver, for the world is willing to try anything once. Fourteen to one cropping up in the Republican party, where Bryan's

TWO U. S. FLIERS SPAN PACIFIC OCEAN

CARDS BEAT MACKMEN IN THIRD BATTLE OF WORLD SERIES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—The St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National League, defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, champions of the American League, in the third battle of the 1931 world series here this afternoon. The victory gave the cards a lead of two to one.

The scores was 5 to 2.

Among the thirty odd thousand who attended the first battle of the series to be played in this city were President and Mrs. Hoover and Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania. The two executives exchanged greetings as they reached their seats.

Robert (Lefty) Grove, who defeated the Cardinals in the opening game at St. Louis last Thursday, made his second appearance on the mound this afternoon. He was opposed by Burleigh Grimes, veteran National League spitball hurler.

Both the Cardinals and Athletics went out in order in the first inning. Adams flied to Foxx, and Roettger and Frisch were retired on grounders in the Cards' first. Bishop fanned, Haas flied to Frisch and Cochrane fouled to Roettger in the A's half of the inning.

CARDS GET EARLY LEAD

Bottomley started the second by drawing a walk. After Hafey had fouled to Haas, Martin hit the first pitch over second for a single, Bottomley pulling up at third. Wilson followed with a hit to right center, which scored Bottomley and sent Martin to third. Martin scored a moment later on Gelbert's line drive to Miller. Grimes singled off Dykes' glove, Wilson moving to second. Adams fanned to end the inning.

Simmons, Foxx and Miller were disposed of without trouble in the A's half of the second.

Roettger, Frisch and Bottomley went out on infield grounders to start the third.

GRIMES SCORES TWO RUNS

The Cardinals added two runs in the fourth when they bunched three hits, one a double by Martin. Hafey singled and went to third on Martin's double. Dykes threw out Wilson and held the runners and Gelbert fanned. Grimes, however, had a single in his bat to score both runners.

Bishop was the first Mack batter to get on base, the A's infielder drawing a walk. He remained on first as Haas, Cochrane and Simmons were retired.

After the Cards were retired in the sixth, Adams was unable to go to his position, Flowers being sent to third base. Adams had injured his leg in making a play in the fifth inning.

GRIMES IN FORM

Grimes fanned Williams and Grove and forced Bishop to fly to Martin to dispose of the A's in the sixth. The Macks were unable to get a hit off Grimes up to this stage.

PINCHOT GREETS PRESIDENT

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—President Hoover, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover and a party of friends from Washington, arrived here for the third game of the world series 20 minutes before game time today.

MEETS MANAGERS

Secretary of the Navy Adams and Mrs. Adams sat on the President's right. Before the game started, Connie Mack and Gabby Street, rival managers, shook hands with the President. Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, also paid his respects.

Once the game got under way,

Jury Starts on Final Phase of Vote Probe

While County Commissioner C. C. McGovern was fighting against time to bar the vote in suspected districts before the returning board completes its canvass, the fraud-probing grand jury today was on its last lap with prospect of additional indictments the latter part of this week.

In an effort to determine whether phantom votes were cast in the Fourth District of Wilmerding, which McGovern is seeking to have thrown out, registered letters were sent to the vote list in that district late today under signature of former State Senator C. M. Barr, running mate of McGovern for County Commissioner on the Square Deal ticket at the coming general election.

Failure of letters to be delivered and receipted for will indicate phantoms, the McGovern aides asserted.

PETITION DELAYED

McGovern's fight to have the vote in this district thrown out encountered delay today. Judges George V. Moore and Elder W. Marshall, presiding over the return board, held they could not rule on the petition until Judge James R. Macfarlane, supervising the recount board, had decided whether the ballot box of the district was to be opened and a recount made.

PANGBORN, HERNDON SAFE AS WHEELLESS PLANE CRASHES

WENATCHE, Wash., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Completing the first nonstop airplane flight across the Pacific Ocean, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, American fliers, landed here today. They were uninjured as they brought down their plane without landing gear, and it tipped over, settling on one wing and smashing the propeller.

They made the flight of approximately 4,565 miles in 41 hours and 13 minutes. They had left Samushiro, Japan, at 5:01 p. m. (Pittsburgh time) Saturday and landed here today at 10:14 a. m.

The flight fell considerably short of the distance record set last July by Russell Boardman and John Polando in flying from New York to Istanbul, Turkey, a distance of 5,011 miles.

Successful, however, in spanning the long stretch of fog-haunted ocean which had balked the efforts of many other aviators, Pangborn and Herndon came in line to receive the $25,000 prize offered by the Tokio newspaper Asahi for the first nonstop airplane flight between Japan and the United States.

Despite damage to their plane in landing here, Pangborn and Herndon said they would fly to Dallas, Tex., nonstop, to win an additional $25,000 prize which they said is offered by a wealthy Texan for the first flight from Japan to that city with only one stop en route.

Their landing was a gesture of respect to Pangborn's mother, who lives here.

After passing Seattle, Wash., they had flown over Wenatchee in an attempt to reach Salt Lake City, to break the distance record. They were balked by fog in the Cascade Mountains, however, and decided to return here for the

Sen. Morrow Dies in N. J. Home

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Senator Dwight W. Morrow died at 1:52 o'clock this afternoon of a cerebral hemorrhage in his home at Englewood, N. J.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Oct. 5—(AP.)—Senator Dwight Morrow, of New Jersey was found dead today in bed at his home in Englewood, N. J., his sister, Mrs E. L. McIlvaine said she was informed in a long distance telephone call from her neice.

Mrs. McIlvaine said she received a telephone call from Mrs. Rebecca Greathouse, her niece and a Washington (D. C.) attorney, telling her that Senator Morrow could not be aroused from sleep this morning.

Senator Morrow spoke at a meeting of the Jewish Philanthropic Society in the Commodore Hotel in New York last night, Mrs McIlvaine said.

Mrs. McIlvaine is the wife of a Presbyterian minister here.

Mrs. McIlvaine said she did not know the place from which Mrs Greathouse telephoned. Mrs Greathouse also is a niece of the Senator.

Dr. and Mrs. McIlvaine were preparing this afternoon to go to Englewood.

Mrs. McIlvaine could give no further information. She said her brother usually arose about 10 a. m.

Lindberghs Reach Nanking on Ship

NANKING, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh, returning to Shanghai after the accident at Hankow when their plane capsized in the Yangtse River, arrived here aboard the British aircraft carrier Hermes this afternoon.

They did not come ashore and the Hermes steamed away for Shanghai. The damaged plane which is to be repaired at Shanghai, was aboard.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Estelle Taylor is through with marriage, she said on her arrival here yesterday. She said she would go through with her pending suit to counter the divorce granted to Jack Dempsey in Reno recently.

MAN SAVES AGED FATHER AND CHILDREN FROM FLAMES

FIREMAN HURT AT BLAZE ON NORTH SIDE

An aged man was rescued, 16 other persons, seven of them children, were routed from their homes and a fireman was hurt when flames swept a two-story frame building at 148-50 Overbeck street, North Side, early today. Andrew Petrovic, who resides on the second floor, was carried through a hallway by his son, Steve, who lowered him through a window to firemen.

Fireman J. G. Lunz, of 909 Haslage street, attached to No. 53 Engine Company, suffered a severe laceration of his right hand when struck by a section of window pane. He was treated at the scene. Battalion Chief Henry Stickle estimated the damage at $3,000.

The fire originated in the grocery store of George Weber and was discovered by a Mrs. Mary Menser, a neighbor residing on Brahm street. Mrs. Menser aroused Weber and his wife. The Webers reside on the first floor in the rear of the store. Also living on the first floor were young Petrovic, his wife Bertha, and their children, Bertha, 8, and Steve, 6 months.

After carrying his children and aiding his wife to safety, Petrovic ran to the second floor to the apartment of his father. He awakened those living in the second floor apartments, including his parent, his twin sisters, Mary and Olga, 17, and Edna Showalter, 19, and the family of Anthony Wolf, including Wolf, his wife, Roma, and their five children, Anthony, 12; Elmer, 11; Ruth, 10; Roma, 8, and Frederick, 3.

Young Petrovic helped Wolf carry the children to the street and helped the young women to leave the building. He then returned to help his father. The elder Petrovic refused to descend the smoke filled stairway and was carried to safety to the window.

SMASH ON LANDING

The plane landed on her "belly," tipped over on her nose and then settled back. She slid along slowly in a cloud of dust.

The plane came to rest on its left wing. Its propeller was smashed in the landing. Aviators described it as a "fish tail" landing.

Before coming down, the fliers circled over the city a few minutes and dumped their excess gasoline in order to prevent any possible outbreak of fire when they hit the ground minus landing gear, which had been dropped shortly after their takeoff at Samushiro Beach, Japan.

At the field as they landed, Pangborn's mother was crying. As both men left the plane, Herndon had a cut over his left eye.

Pangborn said the only damage was to the propeller.

Aviators here said it was a "wonderful landing."

Herndon's first words were:

"Give me a cigaret."

PRIZE CHECK READY

The representative of the Japanese newspaper Asahi was standing by with a $25,000 check for the completion of the first successful nonstop trans-Pacific flight from Japan. He said:

"Very glad to see you boys."

Both men wore wool sox, but no shoes. Pangborn said they went nearly to Spokane, but turned around and came back. They said they were over Seattle, but there was "plenty" fog there. Pangborn said:

"We've been in Japan so long we're still going barefooted."

They had 100 gallons of gas left. They explained its was too foggy for them to go to Salt Lake City. Pangborn explained:

"The reason we came back was because we like the apple capital."

Mrs. Pangborn said:

"My, you don't even look tired."

Their route brought them over Vancouver Island, they said. They circled Mount Rainier three times and passed over Seattle shortly after 3 a. m. The crowd cheered when the plane came down on the Pangborn and Herndon went directly from the field to a hotel for a much needed rest.

They said the fact that barograph was not functioning was one reason they did not continue in an attempt to break the Boardman-Polando distance record.

The fliers said they would need new landing gear and a new propellor before they can continue to Texas. They expected it would be about 10 days before they would be able to leave.

GUESSING RIFE ON BUTLER AND PINCHOT

Friendship Leads Capital To Wonder What Offices Two are Planning to Seek

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The evident intimate friendship of Gifford Pinchot and Smedley D. Butler is leading to all sorts of political prognostication in the nation's capital.

So far as the Republican members of the Pennsylvania congressional delegation is concerned, organization of the next House of Representatives is displaced as a discussion topic by the future plans of the Pennsylvania Governor and the retired Marine general.

On every tongue is the question:

"What are Pinchot and Butler going to do?"

It is the concensus of all that the two men will combine in whatever political maneuver they attempt. But that is as far as the unison of opinion goes.

ANXIETY FOR DAVIS

The guesses on the course of that imaginary combination range from an independent ticket in the 1932 primaries, having Pinchot as a candidate for President and Butler for Senator, to Pinchot for Senator, and Butler for Representative or even State Senator.

Not the least anxious of the Pennsylvanians in the capital over the situation is Senator James J. Davis, who must run for re-election next spring. Already indicating his desire for renomination, Davis has been engaged on a speaking tour of his home state all summer and expects to continue these trips until Congress convenes in December.

TROOP REVIEW RECALLED

The recent retirement of Butler from the Marine Corps, with Pinchot the principal guest of honor at Butler's last review of his troops, lent additional credence to the stories Davis and the Republican congressmen are hearing and passing from one to the other.

At that ceremony, Butler publicly referred to the Pennsylvania executive as "dear friend," and Pinchot later predicted "more would be heard" of Butler.

All queries to Butler as to a possible future in politics brought the smiling answer:

LEADING FILMS, STARS PICKED

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Out of the many hundreds of motion pictures produced in the last year the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences today announced its selection of the five best performances by actors, actresses, directors, technicians and producing companies.

Nominees in the divisions follow:

Best performance, actresses: Marlene Dietrich in "Morocco," Marie Dressler in "Min and Bill," Irene Dunne in "Cimarron," Ann Harding in "Holiday," Norma Shearer in "A Free Soul."

Best performance, actors: Lionel Barrymore in "A Free Soul," Jackie Cooper in "Skippy," Richard Dix in "Cimarron," Fredric March in "The Royal Family," Adolph Menjou in "The Front Page."

Pictures revealing the best photography: "Cimarron," "Morocco," "The Right to Love," "Svengali," "Tabu."

Best art direction went to "Cimarron," "Just Imagine," "Morocco," "Svengali," and "Whoopee." Four studios were nominated for the best work in sound production. They were Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount-Publix, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, and Samuel Goldwyn-United Artists.

Flier Jailed for Plot To Smuggle Aliens

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Loren Mendell, former Mexican border patrol inspector, who with Peter Reinhart established a world's endurance flight record in 1930, has been sentenced to serve one year in the Los Angeles County Jail and pay a fine of $2,000 for conspiracy to smuggle Japanese and Chinese aliens into the United States by airplane.

Crater Hunt Fails In Pocono Mountains

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Detective Jacob Von Weisenstein, sent to Stroudsburg, Pa., to determine whether Joseph F. Crater, missing Supreme Court Justice, had been seen in the Pocono Mountains, notified police headquarters the report was unfounded.

President Hoover sat quietly back with folded arms and watched the proceedings intently. It was Mrs. Hoover who did most of the applauding for the White House.

Through a line of policemen, with K. M. Landis, white-haired commissioner of baseball at his side, President Hoover marched smilingly to his box.

The amplifiers in center field blared out a phonographic reproduction of "Hail the Chief" as the crowd that almost filled the stands by this time rose and cheered.

BLEACHERS JAMMED EARLY

An early morning fog lifted on scenes of unusual activity about Shibe Park, Philadelphia fandom, despite business conditions and the repetition of world series honors for the home team, manifested extraordinary enthusiasm, perhaps due to the sudden turn of events that squared the series in St. Louis.

So great was the press outside Shibe Park that the two bleacher entrances were opened at 7:30 a. m. One was closed in exactly an hour and the other shortly after 9 o'clock, with every seat filled.

The last man to get in the park had taken his place in line at 6:30. Several were arrested for selling their places, but later discharged by a magistrate.

SPECULATORS CLEAN UP

Betting was light around the downtown centers, but several wagers were placed on the Athletics to take the series at 2 to 1.

Speculators got as high as $25 and $50 for reserved seats for today's game, depending on the location.

BOX DECORATED

Two thin strips of red, white and blue covered the front of the box assigned to President Hoover close by the Athletics' dugout. As a special extraordinary touch, a coat of arms that might have been the President's emblem was set up in the center of the bunting. The loud speakers in center field were wired to a phonograph that played records from the clubhouse. The early spectators yelled for musical entertainment, but there was no band.

The Athletics, trim and neat in white uniforms and caps, trotted out for batting practice a few minutes before noon and were royally greeted by their faithful followers in left center. The scattered few in the reserved sections of the covered stands sat up and paid attention. It was the start of the day's show.

Apparently the batting practice Connie Mack put his boys through yesterday, the first time in the history of the world series that a team has worked out on Sunday, sharpened the batting eyes. Al Simmons, head man in the slugging department of the A's, promptly got the left field range and starting whanging balls into the rush seats.

ISSUES ORDERS FOR HALLOWEEN

Harmless Halloween pranks were sanctioned by Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh today, who issued a warning that the destruction of property would not be tolerated.

Orders for the appearance of the offenders in Morals Court were issued by Walsh following receipt of numerous complaints from all parts of the city that Halloween vandalism had been practiced. Most of the complaints, however, came from the Knoxville section, where six residents reported that gates had been removed from cement foundations and destroyed. The order, issued to all police inspectors, placed the official stamp of approval on the usual harmless demonstrations.

40 PCT. SURTAX SUGGESTED

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Hoping to offset the government's huge deficit to some extent, a 40 per cent maximum surtax on large incomes may be suggested to President Hoover, it was learned today.

The maximum applies to those who have net earnings of $100,000 or more annually. The present surtax rate is 20 per cent, to which is added the maximum normal tax rate of 5 per cent.

Officials indicated there is little probability of an increase in the normal tax, so that those whose incomes of less than $10,000 annually are unlikely to be affected.

W. Va. Mine Owners Confer With Conley

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—A group of West Virginia coal operators went into conference today with Gov. William G. Conley to consider the coal situation.

The operators met here upon invitation of Gov. Conley who said before he went into the conference that he did not expect to remain throughout the proceedings but would do so if the operators desired it.

Seek Fliers to Beat Post-Gatty Record

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—P. C. Hall, Oklahoma oil man who backed the world-girdling flight of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, arrived here in quest of two aviators to attempt to better their record.

Post and Gatty took 8 days 15 hours and 51 minutes for their flight. Hall, who came here from Toronto, in a new plane, the Winnie Mae II, said he would interview airmen interested in a similar round-the-world journey.

Philadelphia Gang Guns Peril Children

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The lives of several children were endangered by bullets yesterday, when a fight started a few hours earlier in a dance hall resulted in a street shooting.

John Pelliciotti, 34, was seated in a parked car when another automobile drew up alongside and two men leaped out with guns drawn. Screams of passersby frightened the gunmen, who fired several shots at Pelliciotti as an accomplice drove them away.

SUPREME COURT OPENS TERM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Many persons came to witness the opening of the one hundred and forty-third term of the Supreme Court today, but they saw only a row of justices in sombre robes and there was but a brief buzz of routine for them to hear.

The justices filed into the old Senate chamber, where for 70 years the court has held its sessions, received motions, admitted a group of aspiring lawyers to practice before it and adjourned until next Monday to devote the week to conferences to determine which of the 251 cases submitted today it will later decide on their merits.

Cases advanced for oral argument today will be taken up next Monday, when the court will begin sitting five days a week throughout the remainder of October.

Seek Law to Close Stock Exchanges

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Representative James L. Whitley made known that he is investigating the constitutionality of legislation to compel the closing of the New York Stock Exchange, as well as all other exchanges in the United States, until business has an opportunity to right itself. He has spent several days examinng the legal phases of such legislation. If it is possible to enact it, he will consider introducing a measure at the December session of Congress.

Liquor Seized on Estate Of Secretary Adams

SCITUATE, Mass., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Police today seized 600 cases of assorted liquors, valued by them at about $50,000, on the summer estate of Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy.

Three men found in the Adams garage were arrested. Thomas Maloney, caretaker of the estate, said he knew nothing about the liquor.

The men arrested were Jacob Siegal, 30, of Roxbury; Harry Gordon, 33, and Louis Gordon, 26, both of Dorchester. Two other men escaped by jumping through the garage windows when the officers entered.

Discovery of the cache was made when police became suspicious of several automobiles driven in the direction of the Adams estate. They found the liquor, which apparently had been landed from a vessel this morning, in a barn. The Adams estate is on the water front.

MRS. FRICK'S BODY ON WAY HERE FOR FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

OLD MANSION OPENED FOR RITES

Remains of Steel Magnate's Widow Sent From East On Family's Private Car

The Frick mansion at Penn and South Homewood avenues, once one of Pittsburgh's show places, was being prepared today for the arriva ltomorrow of the body of Mrs. Henry Clay Frick, widow of the steel magnate, who died in her home yesterday at Prides Crossing, Mass.

The caretaker, A. L. Nelson, said today he had been advised to open the home, from which the funeral of the widow of Pittsburgh's pioneer steel man will be held Wednesday at 11 a. m., followed by burial in the Homewood Cemetery. The body will reach Pittsburgh in the Frick private car on the Pennsylvania Railroad, accompanied by Miss Helen Frick, of Pittsburgh and New York, and a number of close friends of the family. In addition to Miss Frick, a son, Childs Frick, of Rosslyn, N. Y., survives.

SERVICES TODAY

Funeral services were to be held in the Frick home today. The Rev. Neilson Poe Carey, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, of Beverly Farms, Mass., will officiate.

Mrs. Frick, who was 72, died after a four-day illness. With her were members of her family. Miss Helen Frick was in New York at the time Mrs. Frick was stricken, and hastened by plane to her bedside when news reached her.

The death of Mrs. Frick released to New York City an art collection valued, with the house containing it, at about $50,000,000. Mr. Frick, who died in 1919, bequeathed the mansion at Fifth avenue and East Seventieth street, New York, and its contents, to the public after his wife's death.

The collection and the home will become a public museum, according to the trustees, who include John D. Rockefeller, Jr., George F. Baker, Jr., Lewis Cass Ledyard, Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, and others. With it goes an endowment fund of $15,000,000 for support of the collection.

MANY MASTERPIECES

Numerous Rembrandt paintings are included in the collection. Among the other old masters represented are Vermeer, Frans Hals, Ruysdall, Hobema, Guyp and Italian works by Titian, Giovanni Bellene, Bronzino, Veronese and Guardi.

Rubens, Velasquez, El Greco, Goya, Van Dyke and Gainsborough are among the others. Van Dyke's "Genese Woman" cost Mr. Frick $400,000 and he paid $500,000 for the Velasquez of "Philip IV." In the collection are 25 porcelains which cost him $1,000,000.

Bank Door Found Open During Night

Patrolman Joseph Scanlon, of the North Side, has discovered many doors left open while on duty walking his beat, but he received a surprise early yesterday morning when on his way home he discovered the door of the Monongahela Bank standing open. He immediately summoned other policemen from Central station and the officers searched the building. Police reported that the watchman had left the bank door open.

Johnstown Girl Leads at State

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 5.—A Johnstown girl, Miss Lavanda N. Pepple, was the only woman to appear among the leading students of Pennsylvania State College, according to a scholastic standings announced today. Enrolled in the school of education, Miss Pepple stands fifth in the senior class with an average of 2.72, with 3 the highest possible grade.

Marconi Predicts Broadcasting Of Thought

LONDON, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—The broadcasting of thought by radio is envisaged by Senator Guglielmo Marconi, according to an interview published here today.

When this has been accomplished, Marconi said, a way would be found to block any broadcast "of the waves of hate and evil."

The famous inventor declared that the world did not need to fear the progress of science, and predicted that the time would come, through scientific achievemen, when everyone would enjoy the comforts and luxuries of millionaires and men will have to work only two hours a day.

CHARITY SHARES LIPTON RICHES

By J. K. SMITH
International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Charitable organizations in England and Scotland will receive a large proportion of the estate of Sir Thomas Lipton, estimated at $10,000,000, it was learned here today.

The trustees, Col. Duncan Neill and Lord Inverforth, said the will would not be made public until after the funeral Wednesday, but the testament has been read privately.

During his lifetime, Sir Thomas gave millions to charity, including many benefactions to his native city of Glasgow, and made arrangements in his will for these to continue through trust funds.

Contrary to previous reports, it was said the will made no provisions for continuing the futile efforts made by Sir Thomas for 30 years to wrest the international yachting trophy from the United States.

11 OF WILKINS CREW REACH NEW YORK

Imprint of Suffering on Faces; Hardships 'Got On Nerves' of Some

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Eleven men who forced the nose of the decrepit submarine Nautilus to within 350 miles of the North Pole came home today with the imprint of suffering on their faces.

Sleepless night, poisonous air, cold that bit into the bone and a vain struggle to keep faltering machinery to its task during a two-month battle across the Atlantic and up into the Arctic, had plainly worn them out.

Ralph D. Shaw, veteran submarine expert of Bridgeport, Conn., who acted as chief engineer on the trip, said:

"I'd do it again, but never, never again under the same conditions."

DREADFUL EXPERIENCE

The 11 who returned today on the liner American Banker were only half of the crew which took the submarine north from Spitabergen under command of Sir Hubert Wilkins. Wilkins and others are returning later.

Shaw said the voyage across the Atlantic, during which the former Navy submarine was crippled so badly that a battleship towed her to Ireland, was the most dreadful exoerience of his career.

Frank Crilly, of Verona, N. J., who was chief diver, refused to say anything about how he risked his life among gnashing ice cakes in heroic dives to repair a crippled rudder.

Dixie Holland, assistant electrician, of Lykens, Pa., said the ice beneath which they dove was 33 feet thick and winter was rapidly closing in. He said:

"The ice looked like a magnified sponge. We got there a month too late. The Arctic waits for no man."

EDISON RALLIES AFTER GRAVE RELAPSE

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The lamp burned dim for Thomas Alva Edison today—but it burned.

Feeble and tired, the "wizard of Menlo Park" rallied this morning after a relapse in which his own physician, Dr. Dr. H. S. Howe, admitted, "I was really worried."

His condition was described as "mentally drowsy," yet he was able last night to take some nourishment with relish and announce, "I enjoyed my supper."

Dr. Howe's bulletin today said the inventor had a much better night, sleeping six hours. It added:

"This morning he is a little brighter and ate his breakfast, though he is dozing most of the time."

Dr. Howe said he looked for no marked change for one or two days.

Two cablegrams from the Vatican touched the Edison family very deeply. A message sent by the Papal Secretary of State at Vatican City through Cardinal Hayes at New York read:

"The Holy Father desires further information regarding the health of Mr. Edison. Please ask family direct and inform them of the Holy Father's deep interest."

John Eyre Sloan, Mr. Edison's son-in-law, answered the Pope, that Mrs. Edison and family "sincerely appreciate the deep interest of the Holy Father."

Apportion Wealth, Mormons Advoate

Man Tastes Drink Made for Friends, Dies of Poison

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Edward Shields, steward at the Harrison Republican Club, mixed some lemonade for friends at the club. He tasted it before serving, became ill and died on the way to a hospital.

Physicians said rat poison, mistaken for sugar, had caused his death.

BANKS CLOSE IN WASHINGTON CO.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 5.—Four Washington County Banks, the Washington Trust Company, of this city; the Monongahela City Trust Company, and the Alexander & Co. private bank, of Monongahela, and the Farmers and Miners National Bank, of Bentleyville, failed to open for business today. Another, the Union Trust Company of Washington, closed at noon after a three-hour run and placed its affairs in the hands of the State Banking Department.

The Washington Trust Company was placed in the hands of the State Banking Department by its board of directors, as a result of heavy recent withdrawals, according to a notice posted this morning. The board stated that it felt the bank can be liquidated or reorganized without loss to any depositor.

The June 30 statement showed deposits of $6,333,948.12 and surplus and profits of $1,850,141.70. Trust funds amounting to $8,917,932.84 are not affected.

The Farmers' and Miners' National Bank of Bentleyeville was in the hands of the comptroller of the Currency. Resources totaled around $750,000.

The closing of this bank along with the two Monongahela institutions followed the alleged suicide yesterday of W. H. Alexander, 66, of Monongahela, an officer of all three. He was found shot to death in his home.

John S. Herron, former state senator, and Carl E. Gibson, of Monongahela, were named receivers of the Alexander bank.

The First National Bank of Monongahela, the only one remaining open in that town, today gave notice that "no deposits will be paid out during the unusual circumstances."

The Union Trust Company of Washington, in business for 30 years, with a capital of $250,000 and surplus of $135,859, was closed following a meeting of the board of directors. The bank had total resources of approximately $4,000,000. T. B. H. Brownlee was president and J. W. Grimes, secretary-treasurer.

CAPONE TRIAL EPIC DRY FIGHT

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—The stage was set today for the opening tomorrow of the greatest legal battle of the prohibition era—the trial of Al Capone.

Capone, the most widely publicized "public enemy" since the passage of the Volstead act in America, is scheduled to appear in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's court to defend himself against the charge of violating the income tax law. He is alleged to owe Uncle Sam $215,000 for failing to pay taxes on an income of $1,038,654 derived from booze, gambling and vice over a period of six years.

Special precautions will be taken against a possible attempt to assassinate Capone or some of the government witnesses.

Engine, 3 Coaches Plunge Down Bank

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The engine and three coaches of the Pan-American, a Louisville and Nashville Railway passenger train en route here from Louisville, plunged down an embankment last night at Keeling, Tenn., 40 miles east of here. No lives were lost. The fireman was scalded.

FIVE IDENTIFIED AS GANG BABY SLAYERS

Coll Mob Taken in Raids By 300 Policemen; Chief, Aides Face Murder Trial

BULLETIN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Vincent Coll, Frank Giordano and three others who were not named were indicted today for murder in the first degree in connection with the Harlem baby slaying.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Vincent Coll, at odds with the law since he was a lad of 11 years, was held today as the long-hunted Bronx "baby killer."

In raids here and at Averill Park, N. Y., in which 300 policemen participated, the entire Coll mob—known to police as a crew of racketeers, musclemen and rowdies—was captured. The gangsters at Averill Park resisted arrest with firearms, but were subdued without casualties.

IDENTIFIED AS KILLERS

Coll and four members of his gang were identified at a police lineup today as the gunmen who occupied the automobile from which bullets swept a Harlem street, July 28, killing one child and wounding four others, Inspector John J. Sullivan announced.

Frank Giordano, who is nearly 10 years older than the gangster leader, did the shooting, Inspector Sullivan said.

Mike Baisle, Pasquale Del Greco and Dominick Odierno, also arrested in yesterday's roundup, shuffled onto the platform under the glaring lights with Coll and Giordano.

Arrested with Coll and Odierno in the hotel were Lottie Kreisberger, who told police she was Coll's wife and said she would rather have a ham sandwich with Coll than a fortune with any other man, and Betty White.

DISGUISE PENETRATED

Coll's disguise was ludicrously revealed as he stood on the brilliantly lighted platform. His hair had been dyed black—not very skillfully. And on his upper lip was a feeble attempt at a mustache.

Five other members of the Coll gang, arrested in a raid on a house in Averill Park, a suburb of Troy, N. Y., last night, were expected here today.

Although Inspector Sullivan charged all five of the men in the lineup today with the Harlem shooting, Assistant District Attorney P. Francis Marron said he would go before the grand jury today to seek indictments for first degree murder against only Coll and Giordano and two other men not yet arrested.

TRACED BY AUTO

The murder Friday of Mullins and the bombing of a garage a few hours later provided the clue which snared Coll.

The five members of the gang arrested at Averill Park were taken only after a wild battle which ended when three members of the gang, including Coll's sister, were beaten into submission as they attacked the officers with chairs after their ammunition was exhausted.

Shotguns, pistols and rifles were found all over the house, which was rented 10 days ago.

The Rev. Dr. Charles G. Jordan, secretary of agriculture in the cabinet of Gov. John S. Fisher and a resident of Lawrence County, has entered on his duties as acting pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Crafton. He succeeds the Rev. Dr. W. J. Dempster, who died recently.

TAX PLAN GIVEN BY LA GUARDIA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—A plan to increase federal revenues $750,000,000 annually by imposing taxes on products of new industries and raising assessments on bigger incomes has been laid before House independents by Representative LaGuardia. The New Yorker dispatched copies of his proposal to members of both Republican and Democratic parties.

The program was devised upon the request of the independents at a meeting last spring.

The increase in income and inheritance taxes, LaGuardia estimated, would net about $300,000,000. Beginning with 20 per cent on incomes over $100,000 as at present, they would be increased to 21 per cent between $150,000 to $200,000 and progressively advanced to 49 per cent for incomes in excess of $2,000,000. Inheritance taxes would be increased on a graduated and progressive rate up to 60 per cent on more than $5,000,000.

Rivals Selling Milk At 2 Cents Quart In Price War

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 5.—Milk was offered today at 2 cents a quart or 5 cents a gallon as a result of a milk war which began a few days ago when a group of dealers announced a reduction from 12 cents a quart to 10. Then the other faction went to 8, their opposition to 5 cents a quart and now comes the 2-cent milk.

It was indicated here today that unless the farmers find some way to bring an agreement, milk tomorrow will be sold as low as a cent a quart or 3 cents a gallon.

JURY STARTS FINAL PHASE OF PROBE

were set forth by McGovern. The district, controlled by the Volpes political allies of Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, gave him 700 votes more than McGovern.

BALLOT BOXES CHECKED

The ballot box of the Seventh District of the Seventeenth Ward, Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong's home district, was brought before the recount board today. A notation on the box said "400 ballots are missing." A check revealed that only 206 of the indicated 656 ballots remained, leaving 450 ballots missing. The election board gave Mansfield 119, McGovern 42, Coyne 75 and Armstrong 621.

Judge Macfarlane gave no ruling, but it was reported that the box would be turned over to the District Attorney for investigation. It had been reported on election night that thugs took the ballot box.

Attorneys for McGovern filed a petition in Common Pleas Court asking that 12 ballots in the First District of the Second Ward of North Braddock be declared fraudulent, and eliminated. The petition stated that 19 ballots of the lot are similar in appearance, 13 appear definitely to have been marked by the same hand and of these, 12 are fraudulent.

FIRST WARD VOTE

Another McGovern petition filed today asked that the county commissioner vote in the First District, First Ward, East Pittsburgh, be barred. The name of a candidate for judge of election had been written in all in the same handwriting, the petition averred. McGovern would gain four votes if the ballots were rejected.

The vote in the Fifth District, Twenty-fifth Ward, was ordered recanvassed today after erasures were found in McGovern's tally.

Night sessions of the Recount Board were ordered tonight and tomorrow.

The October grand jury, charged today by Judge James H. Gray, will carry on any primary election fraud investigation left undisposed of by the September grand jury which, it is expected, will be discharged Friday after handing down indictments supplementing the 18 of last week. The court indicated the October jury might have "special matters" to pass upon later.

PROBE RESUMED

The September grand jury resumed its probe today, centering on the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes in an effort to bare any evidence that would connect "higher-ups" in the alleged frauds preceding the primary election.

The District Attorney's office was examining thousands of affidavits upon which assessments were based, subpenaed by order of the court, to ascertain whether any had been forged or represented phantoms.

More than 125 residents of the First Ward jammed one of the courtrooms today, waiting to testify singly in connection with the barring of 922 names from a supplemental First Ward assessment list shortly before the primaries, on the ground that all had been illegally placed on the books.

Sixteen sample ballots were voted in the First District, First Ward, McKeesport, the canvass revealed. The board was called in and explained that the regular ballots were exhausted at 6 p. m., and, while waiting for extra ballots to be sent out, these sample ballots had been used. The vote was ordered recanvassed.

ARMSTRONG GAINS

In the tabulation of 34 districts today, Armstrong increased his lead over McGovern to about 2,900 votes. He started today with a lead of approximately 5,100 and at noon had been credited with a lead in excess of 7,000.

Comparison of the unofficial with the official vote in 756 districts showed:

	Mansfield	McGovern	Coyne	Armstrong

Girls Leave Home For Park Bench Bed

Two girls who decided to leave their homes spent all night in North Side parks before they were found by police who took them to the North Side station. The girls are Adella Stelmack, 13, of 1303 Fontella street, and Lena Roth, 15, of 1230 Stedman street.

Police found the pair at daybreak today huddled on a bench in West Park. They turned the Roth girl over to her parents and sent the Stelmack girl to the juvenile detention home, when they were unable to communicate with her parents. The girls "ran away" yesterday afternoon.

Finds Bullet Holes In Stolen Auto

With two bullet holes through its hood, and otherwise damaged, D. Rosenthal, of 415 North Highland avenue, found his month-old automobile abandoned in Bigelow boulevard early yesterday. The car had been stolen on Thursday afternoon and apparently had been in a holdup. One license plate, the front, was missing and four new tires replaced by worn casings.

CITIES TO STUDY WINTER RELIEF

Prominent businessmen and sponsors of unemployment relief in this district will meet representatives of Allegheny County municipalities to discuss relief projects for this winter at a conference to be held Wednesday night in William Penn Hotel under the auspices of the League of Boroughs, Townships and Cities of the Third Class of Allegheny County.

Assurance has been given the league that representatives from 66 municipalities and 42 school districts would be present. Among the speakers will be Frank J. Chesterman, vice president of the Bell Telephone Company, one of the founders of the Allegheny County Emergency Employment Fund, and Frank R. Phillips, president of the fund.

$150 Watch Stolen While Family Sleeps

A watch valued at $150 was stolen from the home of E. L. Madden at 2838 Center avenue early today. Madden reported to police. The report stated the thief broke a kitchen window and stole the watch from the living room while members of the family slept on the second floor.

CHURCH HONORS ANNIVERSARY

A three-day celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, North Highland avenue and Station street, began yesterday. Special services are to be held tonight and tomorrow night. Yesterday the anniversary service was preached by the Rev. A. R. Robinson, pastor, and last night the Rev. Dr. Robert E. Speer spoke. At the closing meeting tomorrow night the speakers will be the Rev. Robert M. Russell, the Rev. John McNaugher, the Rev. W. B. Anderson, the Rev. George A. Long, J. B. Eichenauer and Mrs. Ada Kerr Wilson.

Engineers Society To Fete President

Roy V. Wright, president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, is visiting in Pittsburgh today to meet with the student sections of the University of Pittsburgh and the Carnegie Institute of Technology. This evening he is to be entertained at a dinner tendered by the executive committee of the Pittsburgh section of the society in the William Penn Hotel. The dinner is to be followed by a meeting of local members.

JUDGES SILENT ON PASTOR'S CHARGE

Refuse Comment on Day's Accusation That Jurists Aid Political Racketeers

None of the members of Allegheny County's judiciary, now sitting on election cases, would comment today on the accusations made before the Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Indiana, Pa., that jurists are in sympathy with election thefts and political racketeers.

In fact, it was indicated in courthouse quarters that in the absence of any specific charge against any individual, there is nothing to be said or done regarding the report of the Social Service Commission of the conference, read Saturday by the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, of Christ Church.

MACFARLANE SILENT

Judge James R. Macfarlane, president judge of the Allegheny County courts, who has been presiding over the recount board, refused to answer any questions whatever. Judges James H. Gray, presiding judge of Criminal Court, who charged the September grand jury as to its duties and has already received one presentment from that body indicting 18 persons, and will probably receive another presentment this week, recommending additional indictments, also refused to comment on the Day report. He would not make his attitude known as to what in his judgment the ministers were driving at or whom.

KNOW OF REPORT

Judge Elder W. Marshall and Judge George V. Moore, who are presiding over the Returning Board, also refused to comment on the committee's report. All of the judges know of the contents of the report.

In court circles the impression prevailed that the report aimed particularly at one individual.

DONOR CHOSEN FOR SHIP BELL

Capt. Halsey Powell, who was commanding officer of the U. S. S. Pittsburgh, is the man chosen to present officially the bell from the dismantled ship to Samuel Harden Church at the dedication and presentation exercises in Carnegie Hall Wednesday evening, October 28, at 8 p. m., it was announced today. Lieut. L. Broughton, from the Navy Yards, Portsmouth, who was the engineer in charge of dismantling the Pittsburgh, will be present at the ceremonies. The bell will be unveiled by two war nurses, one from the Kathryn Mae Joyce Post, and another, a Spanish War Veteran nurse. Miss Singleton, director of nurses at Hampton Roads, Va., will attend.

Capt. Powell

An announcement will be made that night of the Pittsburgh nurse who will pose for the memorial statue by Vittor to war nurses.

Hoover, Roosevelt Back Jewish Drive

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—President Hoover, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Senator Dwight W. Morrow last night endorsed the drive of the federation for the support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies for $2,230,000 to complete a $5,230,000 budget.

President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt voiced their support in letters to Paul Block, publisher and chairman of the organization's campaign committee. Senator Morrow spoke at a campaign dinner.

FOG HAMPERS N.Y. TRAFFIC

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—A dense blanket of fog rolled in from the ocean today, seriously hampering traffic and air transport service.

Of 10 ships due to dock this morning, seven reached Quarantine early and halted for the fog to lift before proceeding to their piers. The other three were also reported but it was believed they proceeding cautiously through the dense mist covering the ocean waters adjacent to the harbor.

Air lines operating into metropolitan area were also hard-pressed and transcontinental planes were delaying departures in the hope the sky would clear. Eastern Air Lines reported flights behind schedule.

ALL IN A DAY

By MARK HELLINGER

SOMETIMES, as I sit down to begin a column such as this, I cannot help but wonder what the reaction of the reader will be. Sometimes I hope the reader will have a laugh or two. Sometimes I hope the reader will get a bit of a sob. Sometimes I hope the reader will be nothing more than interested. But I really never know.

Here, for instance, is the story of a man whom I shall label Tony. It's as simple and unassuming a yarn as I have ever written—and that covers plenty of territory. And, as I write it, I wonder if people will lean back and say, "What is this guy tellin' us?" We know all about cases like these."

But—as it may here is the story of Tony.

* * *

Tony was a waiter. He had come from Italy eight years before this story opens. Behind him he had left a wife and a baby that was yet to be born.

He had obtained a job as a busboy. If he made $20 a week he was very lucky. Then came a job as a waiter. His pay and tips jumped to $30 a week. As the years drifted by he changed jobs.

Thus, when I first met him some three years ago, Tony was the star waiter of an eating house located in the West Forties. This eating house was a peculiar sort of a spot. It was patronized by society, the stage, the press—and a vast number of gunmen who liked the atmosphere of the joint.

To these varied classes Tony catered. True, he was not the proprietor. He was merely a waiter. But he was fat and away the best waiter in the house.

"A Bacardi cocktail?" he would suggest. "No? Well, how about one Manhattan? Maybe you like a bottle of wine, hey? I fixa you some verra fine haut sauterne, hey?"

It was hard to refuse Tony's suggestions. As a matter of fact, who would want to? And so with the passing of time the proprietor grew to rely on Tony. And Tony's weekly salary ran to $125 and $135 a week.

Tony was my favorite waiter as he was a number of other patrons of the place. When I engaged him in conversation it would always be the same old story.

"Meestaire Marco," he would cry as the meal would near a finish, "I joost wanna know one ting. Canna you helo me getta my wife this country?"

"I no seea my wife in eighta year. My leetla bab she-sa now a year old. But I no knowa her. An she no knowa me. I aska you, Meestaire Marco, is theesa fair?

"Ef I goa to Hitaly I gotta join the army. They poosha me in service for one year and I lossa everything what I gain in dessa country. An' my wife an' bambino, they no better off than what they now be."

At this point of his narrative he would stop and glance at me with an appealing eye. I always knew just what was coming.

"Meestaire Marco," he would cry, "you gotta plenty pull wit' heeg shots in govern'ment service. Can you no pull wire to get my wife and bab into the country?"

I would have liked to have helped Tony. But it was, of course, out of the question. For there was nothing that I could do. I told him so, but it meant nothing to him. It was his definite understanding that since I worked on a newspaper, I could do anything. And O. Roscoe, how wrong he was!

I had a guest with me upon one occasion. When Tony unfolded his spiel, the guest tried a little idea of his own.

"Tony," cried my guest, "why don't you forget about your wife? Try the Broadway way for a time. You haven't seen her for eight years. Get yourself a new gal."

"Tank you var' much, meestaire," he murmured, "but I no knowa you and you no knowa Tony. I lova my wife verr' much—an' know she lova me. I no care for all kin' flapper.

"My wife come some-a day. When she do, I put my arm aroun' her and tell her I love her. An' when I looka in her eye she know I tella her the trut. That will be my rewar'. I can aska for no more."

And he sighed.

"But I wisha she come already. I waita so long now. I pulla all kin' string. I aska everbod' who come in here to helpa me.

"Maybe soona now I hope-a so."

* * *

A month ago I walked into this particular spot for a bite of supper. There were two changes there. The first was in cashiers. And the second was in Tony.

Just why the proprietor had changed cashiers probably he knows best. But he had. Instead of the horn-rimmed gent who had sat behind the register as long as I had been a customer, he now had a young girl with short skirts and big blue eyes.

The girl knew nothing—except the fact that she was pretty. Yet the boss had hired her.

Tony was a changed man for but one reason. As I seated myself, he rushed over with glad news.

"Meestaire Marco," he cried, "I gotta wonder' news. My wife, she'sa pass the quot' and she'sa come here varr' soon. Honest', Meestaire Marco, I am the happiesta man in Hamerica."

He forgot himself so far as to clap me on the back.

"She'sa gonne leave Italy verry' soon, Meestaire Marco. She be over this countr' maybe next month. An' my bambino, too. Ain't that wonderful?

I shook hands with him and agreed that it was indeed wonderful. Tony's enthusiasm was contagious.

I was happy for his sake.

* * *

Early this week I wandered into this closed door restaurant for a bite to eat. Tony was gone. I missed him immediately. So I called the proprietor.

"Tony," I asked impatiently. "Where is Tony?"

And the boss explained it all.

"That new cashier we had," he cried, "she was terrible. She didn't even know that five and five make 14. So when it came time, we had to fire her."

"Tony objected. He said that girl was a wizard and wanted her kept on. I told him he was the best waiter in my place and that I wanted him to stay. But he was insistent. He told me that if I fired her I could fire him, too.

"So I did the only thing I could do. I fired him."

"But," I said, "doesn't his wife arrive soon?"

"Sure" he responded, "but she's just a couple of weeks too late after all these years. Tony and the cashier eloped as soon as I fired her and they haven't been seen since."

* * *

PROWLER SHOT BY NORTH SIDER

Detected, police say, while peering through a window into a North Side home early today, Fred Klein, 40, of 3605 Perrysville avenue, was shot in the right arm by the householder. He is in Allegheny General Hospital.

Police say Klein was shot by Harry Teufel, of 3861 Perrysville avenue. Teufel told police, they say, that he had noticed a man loitering near his home a few hours before the shooting and had ordered him away. Later he heard a noise near the window and saw someone peering into the living room. He ran outside and fired as the man fled.

In North Side Police Court it was testified that Klein, who is employed in the Gusky Orphanage, had been drinking and on returning had mistaken the Teufel home for the orphanage. He was fined $25 or 30 days in jail.

M'DONALD SEES LLOYD GEORGE

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS

International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—In a dramatic attempt to achieve political unity in advance of a general election, Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald today went to the home of David Lloyd George at Churt to appeal personally to the Liberal leader to join the forces of the national government.

Although recuperating from a recent illness and forced to remain away from London, Lloyd George has remained the nominal leader of the Liberals, and consistently opposed efforts of the Conservatives to draft Liberal support to enact a proposed protective tariff or to force an election upon that issue.

In some quarters there were reports that MacDonald was prepared to offer Lloyd George a seat in the coalition cabinet if assured he would back up the government in the coming election campaign.

20,000 Boys and Girls Enroll in Warner Komic Club

More than 20,000 boys and girls enrolled in the new Warner Theaters-Sun Telegraph Junior Komic Club Saturday. This is a reorganization of the Warner Theaters "Kiddies" Club reaching for a goal of 50,000 members before their special Christmas parties are announced.

For the meantime, however, several special entertainments are being planned to take place before the holidays.

NEW CARDS READY

New membership cards and buttons will be ready for distribution at the various meetings next Saturday. The announcement that the Sun-Telegraph had become a co-sponsor with the Warner Theaters for the newly-named club was received with delight by the youngsters because they are now assured of having an official newspaper to report all of their unique and interesting activities.

And now for the boys and girls who live outside of the immediate districts where there are Warner Theaters. We want a big lot of this 50,000 membership outside of Pittsburgh. You'll find an application blank on this page. Fill it in and send it in right away. The secretary of the Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club will mail you the button, the pledge, and the membership card, and complete instructions for forming new chapters in your home town or your neighborhood.

HARRIS HOBBY

John H. Harris, managing director of the Warner Brothers' theaters in the Pittsburgh area, said yesterday:

"The organization of our kiddies' club has been a personal hobby with me and if it were not for the exceptional opportunities offered by the Sun-Telegraph for spreading the wholesome things that we have tried to teach these boys and girls, the opportunities for enlarging the scope of an already with any other agency.

"With the influence of the Sun-Telegraph behind the boys and girls' club, there is a wonderful opportunity to greatly enlarge the activities of the organization, not only from the successful boys' and girls' club, I would have hesitated in sharing the responsibilities involved standpoint of membership, but also in the matter of creating new ideas for the wholesome entertainment of the children. I am glad the Sun-Telegraph is with us and I honestly look for 50,000 members before Christmas—possibly 100,000."

Today

16 to 1 was called heresy, is significant.

FORTUNATELY THIS country has the silver, more of it than any other nation. If the world wants to call silver money, and put a silver calf beside the calf of gold, that will not hurt us. We have, or can produce, almost any amount of silver, and we have the gold.

That last is the important fact, and we should keep that gold, for it will be always fashionable. Five billions of it behind our gigantic dollar operation seem little, but five billion is enough to give supremacy to our dollar.

THE POPE'S warning encyclical Nova Impendet, "New Things Are Upon Us," urging cessation of war preparations and help for the poor, is issued appropriately, on the "Feast of the Guardian Angels."

Reminding the world that "the Redeemer will count as done unto Himself whatever we do for His poor," the Pope urges the bishops "by preaching and by the press" to combat extravagant armaments to which he attributes the world's present troubles.

Choosing a mild word, the pontiff warns the world that want may drive the poor to exasperation.

Experienced men in the United States predict that it will drive the poor beyond the point of mere exasperation.

WHILE THE JAPANESE drop bombs, the Russians mass troops, the Pope calls for charity, the fliers skim over the Pacific and the labor unions announce that some one must find jobs and prosperity for them, the railroads put forth a plan to create four economical systems, with 43,000 miles of trackage and a capital investment of 10 billions.

The proposed four simplified systems would serve the public better, and save money. There is, presumably, no doubt that the Interstate Commerce Commission will consent.

FAR AWAY, and different from anything discussed by ordinary mortals was the recent discussion in which five great scientists took part, Jeans, Eddington, Millikan, Milne and Lodge.

In their five heads there is such wisdom as would give you a headache, if you only read a catalogue of it, and all their knowledge of physics, astronomy, chemistry, radiation and the conduct of the atom under conditions prevailing on giant suns at temperatures ranging up to 50,000,000 degrees centigrade, was centered on the question, "What is to become of the universe?"

JEANS SAYS the stars are pouring out their substance in radiation. The energy thrown out can never be reassembled, so the universe must die, and that will be the end of everything.

No more gold or silver basis. The electrons that make up the atoms of those metallic elements will be scattered in space. No more short selling, no more "now I lay me down to sleep." The whole universe will sleep forever.

MILLIKAN, THE American, says:

"No, the universe seems to run down, but has the power to wind itself up."

He proves it by his cosmic rays.

Eddington says the universe must explode. It should be a terrific explosion, when you consider that a small-sized sun is 1,000,000 times as big as our earth, and there are millions of millions of such suns.

THERE IS NO immediate cause for worry, since the wise men all agree that even our little sun, and this tiny earth, with the human microbes on it, will surely last for hundreds of millions of years longer.

And it is a comfort for the mentally small person to see great minds at odds. They are, be it said with deep respect, like the blind men describing the elephant, in the Asiatic tale. One seized a leg, saying:

"It's a tree trunk."

Another, holding the trunk, was sure it was a snake, and a third, holding the tail, said:

"It's a rope."

Not one of the great scientists can imagine a whole universe.

Didn't the Sewickley Kennel Club have a lovely Indian summer day, though, for their annual dog show Saturday? And didn't the show ring with its large tent for housing the many dogs, from shepherd dogs to wire-haired fox terriers, and the tent for the judging and the different booths make a vivid picture?

Yesterday I mentioned a number of folks I saw at the show, and today I want to add a few more, and remark that so many of the folks chose summer clothes, and with them many wore that old favorite of the society set, crocheted and knitted turbans.

At Rolling Rock a week before most of the spectators wore smart felt hats in autumn colors, but the heat brought forth the popular summer time chapeau.

Chatting with friends was Elizabeth Childs in an orchid boucle suit with a sweater of orchid embroidered in violet, and an orchid fabric turban trimmed with a twist of violet velvet.

Mrs. B. F. Jones III chose a tailored pink crepe frock and a white knitted turban.

Fredericka Holdship was there and Katherine Colon and her young sister Helen. Sitting near the judging benches was Mrs. Francis Nimick with a group of children including David A. Nimick, Eleanor Nimick, Charles S. Nimick and Romola Griswold.

Miss Margaret Coulter from Greensburg had entries in the show, of course. I saw her near the refreshment booth. Strolling about with her wire-haired fox terrier was Mrs. W. C. Robinson, Jr., in a yellow eyelet-embroidered dress. And I saw Mrs. A. L. Robinson wearing a blue and white ensemble and a white turban.

Chatting with a group selling programs was Mrs. David Meade Gilmore in an all-white costume with a white fabric turban. Margaret Rose looked smart in a blue boucle suit and a beige knitted hat. And Elizabeth Braun was there with her scotties.

Committee Lunch To Be Held on October 14

A 54-page year book has been sent out by the New Era Club. The first future event it chronicles is a luncheon at the Congress of Clubs on October 14 in honor of chairmen and committee members, which means that there will be a long list of honor guests, for New Era functions with the aid of many committees. On October 28 the club will visit the International Art Exhibit, and November's events are the annual benefit card party and the annual hospital day, when the members will visit the Veterans' Hospital.

The annual Dorothy Miller Christmas fund sewing is set for December 9, and the Christmas party for December 23. The new year begins with a musical tea at the home of Mrs. P. W. Siebert, then brings a travel talk on Italy, Holland and Belgium by Mrs. John Howard Phillips. The department of arts will present a program, the club will celebrate the Washington bi-centennial and have a talk on "The Pennsylvania of Tomorrow" by Mrs. D. Edwin Miller in February. A musical tea in conjunction with a sale for the blind, an address by Attorney Suzanne Beatty, a member of the organization, the annual meeting, a card party, the customary forestry day and the annual luncheon and reception for new members will complete Mrs. Herman J. Apel's year as president.

BEAUTIFUL EVENING GARMENTS BORROWED FROM THE NINETIES

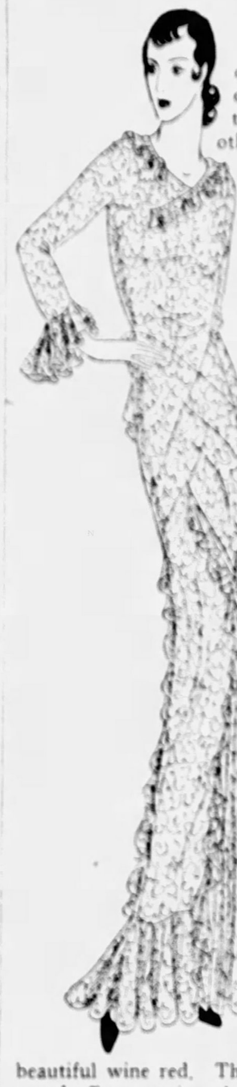
Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.



PARIS, Oct. 5.—Now that we are laying aside our history books we are discovering that the latest evening frocks are new and interesting, rather than exact duplicates of what the charmers of other days wore. Of course one does find, here and there, touches that are suggestive of the eighties and nineties, for not for nothing does every house maintain a pictorial record of fashions of yesteryear. But women are smart enough to realize that clothes or hats that are too obviously duplicates of another era would look entirely out of place amidst modernistic surroundings. And so, we borrow a bow, a drapery, a sash, a sleeve here and there and work it skilfully into the mise-en-scene of a modern frock. And then after all the newspaper talk and interviews by stylists and protests by indignant women, we discover that our new frocks are very new indeed. And everyone is satisfied and happy, for talk and publicity always benefit the dress industry.

* * *

WE SHOW sketches of two of the newest evening frocks. The first is by Lucien Lelong, who went to the fashions of the early nineties for the general design. The frock is of delicate black lace. Over a clinging line he has placed four vertical rows of ruffling at the back and two at the front of the skirt, as well as others at the neckline, on the sleeves and edging the skirt. As an additional touch of femininity there is a soft lace bow at the back of the waistline. The ruffles have been treated with a stiffening process to give them a crisp look and causes them to stand out sharply.

* * *

THE OTHER FROCK, by Lucile Paray, is of thin, dull-surfaced velvet in a beautiful wine red. The drapery across the front at the waistline, the side flounces, the roped effect topping the deeper skirt flounce are all very new and interesting features and offset the severe simplicity of the bodice.

PRE-SHRUNK PRICES

As soon as we know the kind of food you want us to buy for you, we start right in to shrink our prices. And we continue the process until the food is finally handed to you over our counters.

In other words, when producers charge us less for food, we lower our prices to you at once. And when we find a less expensive way of shipping, or storing, or trucking, or storekeeping, we shrink our prices accordingly. Or, if we can reduce the cost of doing anything that adds to the price you pay, we pass the savings on to you as a matter of course.

By starting way back at the beginning and planning ahead, we can sell the best grade of food at surprisingly low prices. And make a small profit besides.

GROUPS READY FOR WELFARE DRIVE

Division Workers Tune Up For Opening Next Month; Captains Organize Units

Various groups are tuning up for the joint campaign for $5,750,000 by the Welfare Fund and Emergency Relief Association scheduled to open next month.

The corporation committee headed by Frank R. Phillips will hold another luncheon Wednesday in the William Penn Hotel. The special gifts committee, of which F. A. Covy is chairman, is preparing for solicitation of large givers while the unit division directed by C. W. Head, is organizing campaigns in 15 large boroughs and communities.

Other divisions include the city and county neighborhood groups, the unit which will solicit contributions from plant employes and a central division comprising men and women for the downtown canvass.

In the unit division James H. Duff, has accepted chairmanship for Carnegie with Mrs. R. H. Bingham and H. F. Botsford, president of Carnegie Council, as associate chairmen. Samuel J. Wilson is chairman for Clairton.

Fred Haller will head the East Liberty group with W. A. Royston as associate chairman. M. A. Smith is organizing the Oakmont-Verona group with Mrs. T. Homer Gray and Mrs. Harry Wolf as associate chairmen.

LIQUOR KILLS 3 IN OMAHA

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Poison liquor, police say, is the cause of three deaths here since Saturday.

Two men were found dead early Sunday, one in his cell at Central Police Station and the other in the rear of a hotel. The first death occurred Saturday at Lord Lister Hospital.

The dead are: James McDonald, address unknown; William J. Britt, Midland Hotel; James G. Shattuck, Kansas City.

McDonald, arrested Saturday morning on a charge of drunkenness, was found dead by a jailer in his cell Sunday morning.

Britt staggered into his hotel, removed his shoes in the hallway and was found dead in the rear of the building, having apparently fallen from the fire escape. A police surgeon, after an examination, expressed the belief that he had died before falling.

Shattuck was taken ill in his cell and removed to a hospital where he died.

5 SLAIN IN CHILE ELECTION

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Juan Esteban Montero, middle-aged newcomer to politics, succeeded today to the presidency of Chile in an election attended by disorders and marked by at least five deaths.

Two Communist candidates received only 3,785 votes between them.

Official figures showed that five persons were killed in yesterday's election disorders, all in Santiago. Unofficial reports said at least 10 lost their lives. Sixty persons were injured in the countryside rioting, and approximately 300 arrests were made.

ANTI-DRY TALK BY MRS. MILLER

Mrs. Carroll Miller, Democratic leader here, is to be one of the speakers at the second annual state-wide conference of the Pennsylvania division of the National Prohibition Reform in Harrisburg Thursday and Friday. At the meeting attempts to work out a plan of action against the prohibition amendment will be made.

Many other speakers of state and national prominence will address the gathering of women. Representatives of veterans' groups and organized labor are scheduled to attend. The conference opens Thursday afternoon in the Penn-Harris Hotel, continuing until Friday morning. A banquet is to be held Thursday night.

Trooper Suspended Over 'Third Degree'

HARRISBURG, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Maj. Lynn Adams, commandant of the Pennsylvania State Police, said he had suspended Sergt. James Hughes and John Bucci, of the Jeffersonville sub-station, pending an investigation of a charge Bucci was implicated in the beating of a Negro prisoner in Montgomery County.

Bucci was arrested last week and released in $2,500 bail. Three Montgomery County officials were convicted recently on the same charge.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Nature Usually Warns of Apoplectic Condition

We seldom look at a newspaper without reading of a case of apoplexy. Most of the sudden deaths are due to this condition.

Dr. Copeland

Apoplexy, or "stroke," as it is commonly called, is due to a rupture of a tiny artery in the brain. This break in the blood vessel permits a hemorrhage into the brain substance. Unconsciousness follows.

In cases of recovery the patient is usually more or less paralyzed. The paralysis that occurs is usually opposite to the side of the brain where the hemorrhage took place.

The most common artery to rupture in apoplexy is a branch of a large vessel, which is found on the right side of the brain. The paralysis is then found in the left side of the body.

The hemorrhage usually takes place in an area of the brain where the motor nerve fibers are centered. The fibers coming from this portion of the brain control movements of the tongue, face, arms, hands and legs. Due to the pressure on the nerve cells caused by the hemorrhage, there is a loss of power of the parts of the body supplied by these particular nerves.

Apoplexy rarely if ever occurs in young adults. It is most commonly seen in persons beyond the age of 50.

Such factors as high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, heart disease, kidney disease and other constitutional disorders are usually the real cause of the conditions which are favorable to hemorrhage.

The onset of the disease is sudden. But most persons have been warned in advance of the danger. They have known of the possibility of its occurrence.

Most cases follow immediately after severe exertion. This exertion may be in the form either of mental or of muscular exercise.

Many attacks of apoplexy occur after heavy meals. It is liable to follow any sudden effort or exercise after a meal which has not been given sufficient time to digest.

Emotional excitement, particularly anger, is a factor to be considered in the prevention of this sudden calamity. The quiet, unruffled person rarely succumbs to this catastrophe.

Care of the diet, hygiene, fresh air and sunshine, plus an adequate amount of rest, are vitally important for all individuals who present any signs of threatening apoplexy. It is certainly true in this disease that prevention is better than cure.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. R. B. Q.—What is cholecystitis? My husband is afflicted. Can he be cured?

A.—This is inflammation of the gall bladder. Proper attention to the diet as well as general care should bring about results.

* * *

K. C. Q.—Some time ago I hurt the muscle in my shoulder. It has shown no improvement. What do you advise?

* * *

M. E. K. Q.—Will the continued use of a violet ray lamp on the face cause a growth of hair?

CONTRACT BRIDGE

Official System as Adopted By Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Standard Way of Bidding Is Adopted by Experts

For five years more than ten millions of would-be contract bridge players suffered from the conflicting advice of half-a-dozen leading authorities. Every system advocated was more or less tinged by a preference for a special purpose: expert plays; clubs; teacher; lecture; tournament. Each was over the heads of 90 per cent of those wanting to learn contract. The public shrieked for uniformity and gladly would have accepted anything announced as a standard game. Two experts do well with any sort of system. They are practically immune to inherent flaws through their subconscious ability to rectify defects that would wreck ordinary players. The remainder of humanity needs something nearly foolproof, extremely simple, and played countrywide.

AUTHORITIES AGREE

Spring, 1931, saw the birth of "Bridge Headquarters, Inc.," especially devoted to all needs of hostess and player. An advisory council was appointed that included nearly every leading authority and writer: Shepard C. Barclay, Sidney S. Lenz, Winfield Liggett, Jr., George Reith, the late Wilbur C. Whitehead and myself, all of New York; Walter F. Wyman, Boston; Charles T. Adams, Chicago; Henry P. Jaeger and Edward C. Wolfe, Cleveland; R. R. Richards, Detroit; Victor R. Smith, Miami; Milton C. Work, Philadelphia.

Weeks of interchanges of personal opinions were followed by four meetings of the Advisory Council. A modern miracle occurred at the first meeting on June 16: nothing comparable to its importance has happened in the half-century's history of bridge. Each authority, sacrificed pet theories for the general good of the game, and signed an agreement to adopt the salient features that required standardization. Succeeding meetings have merely been devoted to less vital topics.

The system adopted was what Mr. Sidney B. Lenz calls the one-two-three bidding. It was adopted as best uniting efficiency, simplicity and freedom from artificial conventions. This system gives the best results in unskilled hands, without in the least hampering the expert in his most masterly strategy. I have taught this method for a year, and I am pleased to see its adoption as the official game. Hundreds of teachers and thousands of players already have abandoned previous methods for these newer and better ones. The official game is destined to sweep the country from coast to coast.

NEW BIDDING METHOD

A purely cut-and-dried game is wanted by nobody. Each player of the official game is free to continue using his own method of system valuation, and to play whatever particular partners best understand.

Long ago experts standardized leads, conventions, and the best way to play each type of hand. But methods of bidding just grew, like Topsy; when almost overnight social leaders abandoned auction bridge for contract, and demanded how the bidding should go, every auction expert had to answer, and, without experience, some of the replies were none too good. Once committed to a particular method of bidding, its originator and his clients were reluctant to change.

In this way half-a-dozen systems of contracting entered the race for popularity. By turns the public favored first one method and then another, just as the mob at a carnival crowds the show having the best barker. That could not continue forever. The most simple and efficient method of bidding finally had to be determined and the game standardized by the majority of competent experts. That has been done in the official game.

The new method of bidding minimizes artificiality of procedure. It does not approve of bidding one-club to announce possession of at least three quick tricks, when the bidder may be void of clubs. It considers that the number of tricks bid by the dealer, or whoever opens contracting, should be in proportion to the strength held and the character of that strength. It considers unwise the utilization of so low a bid as two for announcing the strongest type of hand, and one that will be held perhaps once only in 100 deals.

OPENING BIDS

Common sense says that the least strength worth a declaration should be announced by the lowest possible bid, and that greater strength should be shown in regular order by higher bids.

An opening bid of one of any suit says: "Partner, I have a biddable suit and sufficient strength to win at least the odd trick if you have dummy's expected strength of three assisting tricks. Do not assist me unless you hold greater strength than I expect. Do not feel obliged to shift my bid unless you are strong in another suit and very weak in my suit."

An opening bid of two announces a hand too strong for a lower bid, and asks partner to support upon normal trump strength, even if he happens to be a fraction of a trick below the average strength held by dummy.

An opening bid of three of a suit announces so great strength that game should be assured at some make. This is termed a "demand bid" or "forcing bid," as partner is obliged to respond.

An opening bid for game states that partner is trusted for two tricks for fulfillment of contract and that the bidder's hand probably is not of much use at any other make.

Each of these official bids will be considered in detail in succeeding articles.

Make Up Your Mind Now and Then to Say NO After Second Drink—Fay King

NO THANKS! I NEVER TAKE A DRINK OR SMOKE ON THURSDAYS!
I MUST SAY GOOD-NIGHT NOW!
WHY-
WHAT'S THE IDEA?
GEE! I'M ALL OUT OF CIGARETTES! OH, WELL - WHAT OF IT?
FAY KING

By FAY KING

I haven't the least doubt that there are countless persons who enjoy a good drink, and a good smoke, and are not slaves of either habit.

But at the same time I think it would be a good thing for these persons to occasionally give their full power a test on the matter just to see if it is in good working order.

Make up your mind now and then to say "NO" after the second drink.

See if you can still cheerfully take yourself away from an agreeable gathering at the time you have set.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Rewarded for "Surprise" Room

If any thought of reward had entered into my planning of the "surprise" room for Dicky's older nephews, I would have had it, "pressed down and running over," in the faces of Hank and Bill as they caught their first glimpse of the large guest room which we had transformed into a combination study-bed chamber for them.

For a few seconds they said nothing, simply stood in the doorway with nothing moving but their eyes, which roved from window seat to couches, to bookshelves, and finally focused upon the big basket of gorgeous orange and yellow lilies upon the table.

"Gee!" Hank muttered, but Bill turned to me.

"It's the swellest room I ever saw," he said. "D'ye mean it's really for us?"

There was something in his voice which gave me a choky little feeling, made my voice a bit husky when I answered him.

"Yes, Bill, it's all yours and Hank's. I'm so glad you like it."

"Like it!" His exclamation was eloquent. "And flowers 'n' everything. It's—it's—like a party."

"That's what I wanted it to be like the first time you saw it," I said. "Flowers will probably be in your way when you get settled in the room—"

"Yes, that's so," Hank said, then started violently and turned wrathfully upon his brother.

"Say! What's the big—" he began, then broke off with an abrupt "Oh!" I knew as well as if I had seen the little side play that Bill had administered a kick or a nudge, but I went on as if Hank had not interrupted me.

"But I wanted it to look especially nice when you first came in, so I put them here. Come and look at your window seat."

They followed me to the window, and stood for a second looking it over, then as if with one accord they looked at me doubtfully.

"Yes, you can put your feet on that covering," I said with a laugh which Dicky echoed as the boys scrambled to the seat, adjusted pillows behind their heads, and with knees drawn up and hands clasped over them, looked out over the view which I love so well, of meadow and woodland dipping to the distant ocean.

"Gee! you can see the ocean from here," Hank exclaimed, but Bill looked at me.

"It's all so wonderful, Aunt Madge," he said softly, "Thank you so much."

"I'll tell the world we've got something to thank you for," Hank seconded exuberantly. "Gee, kid! d'ye remember the pictures of his room the million-dollar kid had? This has it beaten a mile. This looks like a college suite. I'll bet old Harkness Memorial itself has nothing on this."

"Harkness Memorial is since my time," Dicky drawled, "but allowing for a slight bias, Hank, you may be right."

His eyes were twinkling and I was afraid the boys might see his amusement.

"It is your Uncle Dicky who should be thanked for the room," I interposed hastily.

"Don't you believe her, boys," my husband disclaimed emphatically. "All I did was to write a check or two and hold down the eternal feminine tendency for frills and ruffles. The whole idea was hers, just as every good thought around these diggins is."

He tossed a kiss to me and I forgave him, albeit with a little moue for his libelous utterance concerning frills and ruffles. For it had been my guiding thought in planning the room that no hint of feminine taste should appear in it. The flowers had been my sole lapse from my plan of having the room one which boys would like and in which they would feel thoroughly comfortable.

"At any rate you won't find a frill or a ruffle anywhere around," I told them, laughing. "Now we'll leave you to unpack and put away your things to suit yourselves. Here is your closet"—I threw open the door—"the low shelves are for your shoes and your beds are under these coverlets." I lifted one up, displaying the linen and pillows beneath. "When you go to bed, just drape these coverlets over the nearest chairs and your beds are ready for you. Then any other time you can lounge on the beds without being afraid of your shoes soiling things."

I started from the door, but Junior caught at my hand frantically.

"But the baby's asleep, dear," I said.

"No, she isn't," he countered triumphantly. "We heard Aunt Katherine talking to her when we came by the door. She's awake all right."

"Then we'll take the boys to see her right away," I promised, answering the pleading in my small son's eyes.

Household Hints

Always add a little vinegar to the water in which an egg is poached. This prevents it from breaking.

If starch for curtains is added to the last rinsing water they will hang much better than if put straight into the starch.

Books seldom used are liable to be attacked by insects. To prevent this, make a mixture of powdered alum and white pepper.

A cheap and easily prepared cement for broken china is lime mixed with the white of an egg. Only take sufficient white of an egg to mend one article at a time, and mix thoroughly with a small quantity of lime. Apply the mixture to the place where the article is broken, and the cement will soon set and become quite hard.

-:- Correct Manners -:-

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

To the Bridegroom

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should a letter of congratulation being sent by a man to a male friend who has just been married be addressed to him personally, or to "Mr. and Mrs." the writer having never met "Mrs."? W.

Your letter of congratulation "Mr." However, after the main part of your letter, which of course will be taken up with your congratulations and offering of best wishes to your friend, you should dedicate a sentence or two to "The Mrs." It is customary, for instance, to write something of this nature: "Please tell Rose—you see I am already thinking of us as old friends, since she is now the wife of an old friend—that I am sending her, too, my heartiest felicitations and my wish for happiness always. I expect to be asked to be one of the seasoned old guests at your fiftieth anniversary. And do let me know your wife soon, for I have very many enthusiastic things to tell her of my admiration for you—although of course I probably cannot add to her enthusiasm for you! All friendliest wishes to you both."

A Gentleman and Two Girls

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a gentleman walks with two girls should he be on the outside or between the two? G.

He should walk on the side of the pavement nearest the curb.

Birthday Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been very good friends with a young man for a year. His birthday is soon and my mother thinks I should give him a gift. Would this be proper? MAY.

I suggest that you make a perfect choice of a good book for the young man. Show him, by your choice of just the right book, that you have excellent taste and discrimination.

Using the Spoon

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

No. Always eat from the side of a spoon.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Hate and Self-Pity Bring Unhappiness

Does hate pay?

Joycelyn thought it did.

Can you blame her?

Six months after her marriage—marriage that was a little bit of heaven to Joy—her husband and her girl friend came to her and said they loved each other and asked for the husband's freedom.

What would you have done if that had happened to you? Stop and think a moment before you read her letter. Then see if you approve of what Joycelyn did—if you think it paid.

"Dear Sally:

"I have read Jane's letter, telling about how she lost her boy friend to her chum, and—believe you me—I feel sorry for her! But maybe if you will print this letter it will cheer her up.

ASKED FOR DIVORCE

"She is crying because her girl friend stole her boy friend just before they were married. Well, I had a friend like Jane's. She was all and more than a sister could be. We went through grade school together, though we took the same course in the same business school and were finally employed in the same office.

"Then the one and only man (so I thought) came along. It was a whirlwind courtship. We simply couldn't wait any longer without each other. So we plunged into the sea of matrimony.

And on that eventful day the girl friend held my bouquet while the boy friend slipped the ring on my finger, and the minister pronounced the words that made us one. Was I happy? Was I in my Seventh Heaven? Oh Sally! Need you ask?

"Six months later they both came to me (oh, they were regular!) and told me they had found out they loved each other. They said they had been trying to kill their feeling for each other but they couldn't, and would I please give Ken a divorce?

"Of course, I did it. I certainly didn't want any man who wanted someone else. And I'll admit I was thinking all the things that Jane is thinking now. I was sure my life was ruined. Never again could I be happy! So I settled down to be unhappy for the rest of my days.

HATRED GONE

"That was three years ago. Ken and Louise are married and have a darling baby boy. But, of course, it isn't half as nice as the one the stork left at our house two months ago. Bill and I are crazy over our baby—and over each other.

"Yes, I am married again and very happily. Ken and Louise seem to be very happy, too. We four all see each other quite often and have some awfully good times together. I really think both Ken and I are better off the way things are than the way we started out.

"Of course, I didn't get over the feeling of hatred I had in a day or one month either. But I can truthfully say that it is all gone now, and I realize it wasn't Ken's or Louise's fault that it happened.

"So cheer up, little Jane! Fate has something better waiting for you, just around the corner, if you'll look for it.

"JOYCELYN."

And that goes for you, too, my dear, if you're nursing a broken heart. There's nothing novel about a broken heart, and nothing final. It happens to most of us, it is just part of the serious business of growing up. And life may be infinitely richer after your heart is broken than before, if you'll have it so. Broken hearts are ploughed earth. They may bear rich, golden harvest. But they'll never bear harvest if they're seared with hate or soggy with self-pity.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Chemists offer a variety of hair dyes. What suits one shade of hair may not fulfill a happy mission for the next one. If a woman must dye or die, let her look over preparations carefully, or seek information at a reliable beauty shop.

Collar bones that loom up like shelves are seldom the result of malnutrition, more often they are due to slack posture. When the chest is lifted, hips thrown back, tummy held in, head carried high, the bones creep away out of sight. No massage or cream will have any effect upon this beauty ill.

The brisk, alert woman, with an active mind and a sunny disposition usually retains her youthful figure throughout the years. She is aware of herself, of every movement she makes. Being brisk, she walks briskly. Being brave, she holds up her chin, looks the world in the eye without batting an eyelash; goes about the business of living with zest. Her activity produces vigorous circulation, which makes for good digestion, sparkling eyes, firm facial tissues and other elements of beauty.

We Now Present

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

THE INDUSTRY THAT made him a national celebrity may soon be deserted by Graham McNamee for a much more lucrative field that of talking exclusively for movie news reels.

Darrell V. Martin

The ace announcer of NBC has under consideration at the moment a $65,000 movie contract which would occupy almost all his time.

The contract has a proviso that McNamee shall announce on the radio only when and where specified by the movie concern.

McNamee takes the idea even though $65,000 is a smaller figure than he receives from his various enterprises at the present time. The McNamee we associated with at the Radio-Electric show Saturday night was not the McNamee of the past. His wife's suit for divorce has changed him considerably. The folks in New York say no, but we have an idea that there's to be a reconciliation.

* * *

With McNamee was perfect-pose George Hicks, who teamed with James Wallington some months ago to give NBC its greatest feature broadcast . . . that of a submarine diving in Long Island Sound . . . Hicks liked Pittsburgh but he couldn't hide his pleasure at being train bound for Shenandoah, Va., where a certain girl got up rather early yesterday to meet George coming in on the 6:04 a. m. train.

* * *

While Hicks packed his bag in a downtown hotel late Saturday night we perused some of the telegrams that he and McNamee received during the world series games at St. Louis . . . boosts and knocks, joys and sorrows, and one long sympathetic epistle from a Nebraska mother who asked Mac to plead for "her boy" to come home.

Question a Day:

Do the networks receive a commission for selling their artists on sponsored programs? Martha K. New Kensington.

Answer—Indeed they do! Ten per cent of the artists' salary goes into the company's treasure chest. When an artist is sold for a personal appearance, like those who came to Pittsburgh for the Radio Show, the networks collect 15 per cent.

The way of the transcription is hard . . . almost a month ago, Lil Dagover spoke into a funnel-shaped horn in New York . . . a record for the radio . . . we hear it on KDKA at 7:45 tonight . . .

You have asked us not to slip up on good dance orchestras out of town . . . well, there's Red Nichols at 11:30 and Bobby Meeker at midnight, both on WABC . . . and, as always, the genial Jimmy Joy right here at home . . .

The world series games from Philadelphia—over KDKA, WCAE, WJAS—have been moved up to 1 p. m. (CBS) and 1:15 p. m. (NBC) . . .

We believe the Romberg hour on KDKA last night was a most creditable broadcast, cleverly arranged and expertly handled by Frederick G. Rodgers . . . and when Fred said he wanted Joe Penner's elephant he wasn't fooling . . . Fred has exactly 19 toy species of pachyderms in his Mt. Washington home . . .

Friday night on the eve of the Notre Dame-Northwestern game, two programs are to be dedicated to the memory of Knute Rockne, late coach of the Irish . . . the first at 9:30 on KDKA, featuring the Notre Dame Glee Club and Coach Dick Hanley, of Notre Dame . . . the second at 10 o'clock, also on KDKA, with Ferde Grofe leading Paul Whiteman's Orchestra in the tone poem, "Life of Knute Rockne," written by Grofe . . . Warren Brown, sports editor of the Chicago Herald-Examiner, is to speak.

Effie Watts literally picked her accompanist "out of the air" last week at the radio show she heard George Miller playing on WWSW, telephoned the station she would like to have him play for her . . . he did.

Russ Columbo has been signed by a vaudeville circuit, but will continue his regular NBC broadcasts . . . Sir Hubert Wilkins will go on an NBC speaking tour shortly after he arrives in New York on the Bremen Wednesday.

Bernice Claire is promised WJAS listeners tomorrow morning at 11:45 . . .

Pittsburgh people who have made good in radio in the big cities include Milton Tully, Carolyn Gray, Lucile Black, Irene and Mathilde Harding, Chauncey Parsons, C. W. Horn, Ollie Riehl, Norma Altwater, Virginia Kendrick, Tom Waring, Fred Waring, Ted Weems, Don Bestor, Edwin Whitney, Al Llewelyn, Edwin M. Whitney. Can you think of any more? Certainly Pittsburgh can be proud of these contributions.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The barons of broadcasting are ever fond of gazing into their crystal balls, trying to see what is in store for them a year hence, 10 years hence.

They invariably see plenty. And seeing, rush into print with their observations. Most optimistic men in the republic today are the broadcasters. The sun always shines for them. Maybe, it's because in their ears is the eternal and soothing click of the cash register.

They have become so optimistic they are actually predicting the extension of their advertising chatter to foreign lands. Fancy that, Sir John! Fancy going into forbidden England with their ballyhoo! Here is Frank A. Arnold, busiest of radio's researchers, who, putting on his rose-tinted glasses, writes in a book, "Broadcast Advertising:"

"Ten years from now, and quite possibly in less time, we shall be handling advertising on an international basis. The advertiser, who is now employing a national network for the exploitation of his goods and at the same time has foreign contacts, can place a contract with the American broadcaster with the assurance that his foreign message will be conveyed to its destination in the established form and delivered in the language of that country."

Maybe so, but it seems to us it will be delivered over the prostrate forms of foreign broadcasters asleep at their switches. Yet, I can contact is a potent word in American radio studios.

Doctor's THREE RULES
Big Help to Constipated

WHAT a joy to have the bowels move like clockwork, every day! It's easy, if you mind these simple rules of a famous old doctor:

1. Drink a big tumblerful of water before breakfast, and several times a day.
2. Get plenty of outdoor exercise without unduly fatiguing yourself.
3. Try for a bowel movement at exactly the same hour daily.

Everyone's bowels need help at times, but the thing to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You'll get a thorough cleaning out, and it won't leave your insides weak and watery. This family doctor's prescription is just fresh, laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other mild ingredients that could not hurt even a child. But how it wakes up those lazy bowels! How good you feel with your system rid of all that poisonous waste matter.

Clean up that coated tongue, sweeten that bad breath, and get rid of those bilious headaches. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will soon free the bowels from waste. You'll eat better and sleep better, and feel better all over. Generous bottles at all druggists.

Hours of gargling wasted while bad breath lingers on

Don't waste dollars on antiseptics that must be used full strength. This new discovery even when diluted with two parts of water, kills germs in 10 seconds

MILLIONS of gargles wasting their time on weak and ineffective antiseptics. Stop gargling long enough to consider this: If you mix your mouth wash with water—as 3 out of 4 do—you must use one that kills germs when diluted. Then, and only then, have you the right to expect freedom from bad breath—security against offending others.

A radical new antiseptic discovery

Now there's a revolutionary antiseptic on the market—Pepsodent Antiseptic. Its formula is a radical advance. It climaxes the best antiseptic study of 50 years. A germ-killing agent is employed unlike those now in use. It makes Pepsodent Antiseptic from 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics, depending on which one you use.

Kills germs in 10 seconds diluted with 2 parts of water

That is the startling news in this new discovery. Think! You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with one or even two parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds.

That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all that power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon this new antiseptic is in the fight against bad breath.

Checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer

Bad breath checked 1 to 2 hours longer! That's Pepsodent Antiseptic's record in fighting this widespread social offense due to unhygienic mouth conditions. Immediately after use, 95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs remains reduced by 75%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics. And please remember when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic for bad breath you are doing double duty by also fighting colds.

COLDS, SORE THROATS
Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when fighting bad breath. For at the same time it combats colds and throat irritations. Remember P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

$3 Worth for $1

To kill germs most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix them with water is a waste of time. Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. That means every $1 bottle does what 3 bottles of other mouth antiseptics do. Goes 3 times as far—you get $3 worth for $1 . . . a saving of $2.

Checking bad breath and combating colds are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you traveling.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool bad breath.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern Antiseptic

Cold in Head
Throat Irritations
Voice Hoarseness
Bad Breath
Cold Sores
Canker Sores
Mouth Irritations
After Extractions
After Shaving
Minor Cuts
Blisters
Loose Dandruff
Checks Under-Arm Perspiration

A Solution to Alteration Problems in This

Demonstration and Sale

HALF SIZE

Frocks & Coats

Tomorrow (Tuesday) and Wednesday

Simply by wearing a half size frock or coat, the majority of women may save many unnecessary clothes alterations! This statement is a result of Government research, which shows that 71% of American women are 5' 5" tall or less—shorter than "regular size—and can be fitted most accurately in the modified shoulder, bust, hip, and sleeve measurements provided in Half Sizes!

Tomorrow and Wednesday Boggs & Buhl presents a sale that will be a revelation in frocks and coats in half sizes. Two Half Size specialists have been brought on to model for this event—and consult with you on individual fitting problems, all day each day. The smart fashions and extraordinary values featured in this sale comprise the largest single half size collection we have ever offered.

Five Feature Sale Groups—'Eugenie' Half Size Fashions

DRESSES..$15.75

Eugenie herself was only 5' 4"—a half size—that's why the important in Eugenie fashions look smartest in correctly proportioned sizes! This sale presents, at $15.75 a comprehensive selection of Eugenie fashions in sheer woolens, satins, cantons, and chiffon dresses for street, sports, and afternoon, with the look of $25 models!

COATS....$59.50

The new rough woolens, full shoulders, simple skirts, above-the-waist interest was "made" for women who are smart, but not slim as they once were. Featured in coats embellished with such costly furs as Kolinsky or Fitch—with smart tailoring in correct proportions—at a Boggs & Buhl price that's famous for outstanding fashion and quality!

DRESSES—$25

Like the $15.75 models; show outstanding types for every occasion—with just as exquisite fashion and quality at these prices.

COATS—$25, $89.50

Burglar Drops Loot as Police Bullets Fly

SIX DIE IN WEEK-END TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

JEWELRY STORE ROBBED IN DOWNTOWN

A suspected burglar who was seen by police coming from an alley in the rear of the 3700 block Mintwood street carrying a suitcase and a carpet sweeper, dropped his loot and fled amid a hail of shots fired by two policemen early today.

Patrolmen Philip Webster and Frank Waite who fired five shots at the suspect took the goods to the police station where it was found that the suitcase contained a score of jars filled with preserves.

A thief early today shattered a window in the store of the Kaufmann Jewelry Company at 330 Diamond street. It is not known how much loot was obtained.

GROCERY STORE ROBBED

Thieves who entered the George K. Stevenson & Co. grocery, Center and South Highland avenue, washed down several pies and cakes with numerous bottles of ginger ale before stealing $50 worth of merchandise, police were notified. Empty bottles with remnants of pies and cakes were found when the store was opened today.

From the Miami Restaurant, 6120 Center avenue, thieves, after forcing a rear door, took $100 from the cash register, according to a police report.

AUTO ROBBERY

Samuel Rosenburg, of 328 Dinwiddie street, and a male companion, whose name police did not obtain, were held up and robbed by two men at Webster avenue and Perry street early today. The robbers stole Rosenburg's automobile.

Shot when he attempted to pursue the robber who held up the chain store at Forty-second and Geneva streets, T. L. Kennemer, of 225 Sheridan avenue, manager of the store, was reported recovering today. He is in St. Francis Hospital, a bullet wound in his thigh. The robbery and shooting occurred late Saturday night.

Thieves opened the safe in the office of the Moon Run Coal Company, Robinson Township, yesterday but did not obtain any loot, according to a report made to county detectives.

Bishop Welch Speaks Before Record Crowd At M. E. Conference

Ordinations Mark Day of Many Activities

By THE REV. C. T. MURDOCK
Staff Correspondent.

INDIANA, Pa., Oct. 5. — This meeting of the Pittsburgh Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church is the largest conference in my memory, extending over a period of 30 years. Hundreds were turned away from the conference church where Bishop Herbert Welch delivered the annual sermon while hundreds stood in every available nook and corner yesterday.

ORDINATION HELD

The annual ordination of ministers was held in the afternoon. An hour before the service every seat was filled. Seventeen young men and one woman were ordained.

The conference is behind in its work, and an early adjournment is impossible.

Dr. Richard Cuthbert, the newly-appointed superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital and Home for the Aged, submitted his annual report. The home is filled to capacity with more than 50 residents. The general health has been good, and deaths few.

GOODWILL SUCCESS

Dr. S. W. Corcoran, superintendent of the Church Union, presented his annual report. Eighty per cent of the contributors to the $300,000 fund have paid their subscriptions.

The Epworth Fresh Air Farm at Bakerstown was sold for $20,000. The Goodwill Industries have had the best year in existence.

The Wesley Foundation, by which the Methodist Church follows its students through colleges and universities, must be supported by the Pittsburgh Conference, the assembled delegates were told today by speakers following the submission of the foundation's annual report. No aid can be expected from the national treasury, the meeting was informed.

Woman Found Dead In Rooming House

Miss Helen Gill, 60, was found dead in the fourth floor of a rooming house, 502 West North avenue, last night. Homicide detectives, who said the woman had been dead several days, found no evidence of foul play.

Morgue attaches reported death was due probably to heart disease. She was found by Mrs. Bertha Welton, proprietress of the rooming house. Miss Gill had roomed there for 14 years. The woman was last seen alive by another roomer last Sunday morning en route to church.

CRASHES FATAL AS 2 AUTOS HIT POLES

Woman Killed in Lincoln Highway; Cars Collide on Span; Insect Blinds Driver

Five men and a woman are dead today as a result of automobile accidents in this section during the night and yesterday. One of the victims, a man, still unidentified, is believed to be the victim of a hit and run driver. The others are John Poliyan, 35, of 3992 Oakdale street; Mrs. Bertha Howell, 53, of Westmoreland City; Harold Young, 28, of McKean place, New Kensington; Charles Hasselman, 31, of 4826 Sciota street, and George Dumrauf, 19, of 1610 Hatteras street.

Poliyan was fatally injured early today when a truck in which he was riding with two companions hit a pole at Ley and Rialto streets, North Side. Edward Burke, 42, of 612 Woods Run avenue, riding on the truck, is in a critical condition in the Allegheny General Hospital. He suffered internal injuries. Police are holding Vincent O'Grinz, 23, of 3990 Oakdale street, driver of the machine.

CRASH ON BRIDGE

Dumrauf died in the Allegheny General Hospital this morning from injuries suffered in an automobile collision on the Sixteenth Street Bridge yesterday. Drivers of both cars have been notified to appear before the coroner and give bond pending the inquest.

Mrs. Howell died this morning in the McKeesport Hospital from a fractured skull. She was fatally hurt when the automobile of her husband hit a pole in the Lincoln Highway near East McKeesport last night. The husband was only slightly hurt.

Young was killed when a truck on which he was riding was crowded from the Saltsburg road, Plum Township, by a machine early yesterday. William Blair, of New Kensington, the truck driver, was only slightly hurt.

The unidentified victim was found yesterday along the state highway near Undercliff by Frank Boller, of Etna. Morgue attaches are seeking to identify the victim.

HIT CROSSING STREET

Hit by an automobile while crossing Ardmore boulevard, near Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg, Haselman died in the Columbia Hospital yesterday. The victim is assistant secretary-treasurer of the Bloomfield Trust Company. Police arrested Albert M. Glenden, of 1526 Mobile street, Turtle Creek, as driver of the car.

Losing control of his automobile when an insect flew into his eye, Vincent Claire, of 38 Congress street, and his companion, Thomas A. Peelhart, 59, of 1007 Epiphany street, were injured when the car crashed into a safety zone in Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, yesterday.

Michael Paster, 8, of 1325 Breed street, was injured late Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile in Carson street, near South Ninth street, by an automobile driven by Carl Nelson, of Sigel street.

Struck by a hit-and-run autoist, police say, as she was crossing Eighth avenue at Amity street, Homestead, Saturday night, Betty Johnson, 10, of 406 Amity street, suffered a fractured right shoulder.

SERVICES MARK DEDICATION

The remodeled edifice of St. Margaret's Catholic Church, Greentree, was dedicated yesterday morning with special services. The congregation is building a new church and until it is completed, will hold services in the remodeled building.

The Rev. John Angel, pastor, delegated by Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, to officiate, conducted solemn high mass at 11 o'clock. The Very Rev. Thomas Bryson, dean of the district, preached the sermon.

Other priests who participated in the dedication mass were the Rev. Clarence Tschippert, deacon; the Rev. Andrew Pauley, sub deacon, and the Very Rev. John Greiner, pastor of St. Peter's Church, South Side, master of ceremonies.

Shot During Robbery, Former Convict Dies

Charles Williams, 41, a Negro, of 544 North Aiken avenue, shot by Patrolman Dan McGreevy when found in the pantry of an apartment house at 708 North Negley avenue Friday morning, died yesterday in Pittsburgh Hospital.

Saturday he was identified in the hospital by Precinct Detective John Hickey as a former convict with a long career of housebreaking in the East End.

Isler Gun Attack Gang Eludes Police

Police today were still searching for the gunmen who shot up the home of Jacob Isler, North Side detective, of 3329 Brighton road, Saturday morning. Police blamed the shooting on a racket gang. Five shots were fired into the detective's home in an effort to kill him, police said.

OFFICER FREED AS HIT-RUNNER

Police Sergt. William T. Timmons, reporting to Forty-third Street Station, was detained in North Side Police Station yesterday on complaint of Millvale police, who had reported they wanted the Pittsburgh officer in connection with an automobile accident in East Ohio street near the Fortieth Street Bridge.

The officer was released, later, when the Millvale police chief appeared at North Side station and informed the officers there that Timmons was not sought by Millvale police. Timmons' name and the details of his "arrest" were stricken from the docket.

According to a sergeant's report in North Side station, Timmons' car collided with another car, driven by E. A. Heineman, of 1313 Stokes street, locking them together. Timmons, the report said, refused to aid in the separation of the vehicles. The report also said Timmons was arrested at 910 Diamond street on a hit-and-run charge, on complaint of Millvale officers.

Girl in Hospital After Taking Poison

Said to have swallowed poison in her home early today, Anna Stabb, 19, of 612 Attica street, is in the South Side Hospital. Police were called to the hospital when the girl was admitted there. She refused to say why she had swallowed the poison.

Our Navy's Cut To Bone and Its Foes Gnaw That

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

In an effort to make both ends of the budget neat the administration has taken a 20 per cent slash at history, patriotism and glory.

In a way it is right. What's left of the American mercantile marine can be protected by a night watchman on a bicycle.

Budget must be chiseled $61,000,000. And, as usual, the sailors are being blamed for what happened on shore.

One by one, our historic craft are filling and sinking. First it was the Merrimac. Next it was Bill Taft's marble bathtub. And now, it's the whole works.

That an't the worst of it. Who's going to play West Point?

JAPAN SENDS SHIPS TO CHINA

SHANGHAI, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Two Japanese destroyers arrived here today and two others were on their way to reinforce Japan's flotilla on the Yangtse River in the face of Japanese officials' fears that serious trouble would break out against their nationals in many river ports.

The Japanese exodus from various Chinese cities, developing since trouble started openly two weeks ago with the occupation of Southern Manchuria by Japanese troops, quickened a little today.

The Japanese Legation here announced its consulate at Chengshow, Honan Province, had been closed and all its staff and other Japanese residents there had withdrawn to Hankow.

CHURCH MARKS 75TH YEAR

The seventy-fifth anniversary exercises of the First United Presbyterian Church of Oakmont will be continued throughout the week. The celebration opened yesterday when Dr. J. Knox Montgomery, moderator of the general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, addressed the congregation.

Missionary organization night will be observed tonight. Tomorrow will be Homecoming Day, and the remainder of the week will be devoted to family, historical and community nights. Communion Sabbath will be observed next Sunday morning.

The Rev. Dr. D. D. Dodds is pastor of the church, which was organized in 1856. The present building was erected in 1905.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Say, maybe all the nations will go off the gold standard and decide that silver is a metal too. This fellow Calles, the ex-president of Mexico started all this when he declared silver was their national dish, now all of 'em are joining in. A nation has the right to declare anything it wants for money—poker chips, possum hides, empty gin bottles, niblicks, or

Will Rogers cancelled Congressmen's checks to bootleggers—so it looks like the United States and France will have to take our gold and fill our teeth with it.

INSURANCE MEN STUDY LEGAL PROBLEMS

Disability Clause Proof Brings Discussion Before Convention Sessions Here

Legal problems confronting the life insurance companies and including particularly difficulties in the use of the "total and permanent disability" clause are being discussed today in the opening sessions of the legal section of the American Life convention at the William Penn Hotel.

The problem of re-writing the large number of insurance policies upon which loans have been made recently is also to be studied.

Judge William H. McNaugher welcomed the legal delegates to Pittsburgh. The insurance companies have employed an increasingly high type of legal talent in recent years, he declared.

Joseph Reynolds, president of the Kansas City Life Insurance Company and twice president of the convention, traced a brief history of the disability clause and declared that dealing with it constitutes one of the serious problems of the insurance business today.

Other addresses on legal problems were given this morning by Judge Byron K. Elliott, general counsel of the convention, and C. P. Peterson, of Lincoln, Neb. Col. Charles B. Robbins, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., president of the convention, welcomed the delegates in a brief address.

Frank W. Wozencraft, of Dallas, Tex., presided. The sessions of the legal section will be held today and tomorrow, and the main body of the convention will meet Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Executives of insurance companies from all parts of the country will attend.

SOCIETY SEEKS TO TAKE OVER ZOO CONTROL

Banishing of Politics Motive of Sportsmen In Organizing Body

The formation of a Zoological Society of volunteer sportsmen and wild animal enthusiasts in the hope of supervising the Highland Park Zoo and taking it out of politics will be consummated within the near future, it was learned today.

Councilman John M. Phillips, Arthur W. Henn, secretary of the Isaak Walton League and others are planning the society. One of the objectives will be to divide the Zoo, establishing part of it in South or North Park and retaining those animals that need cages in Highland Park.

'ROUND-WORLD CYCLISTS HERE

Sixty thousand miles of adventure during which they were chased by Bedouins, attacked by wolves and suspected of being spies, is the story of two quiet Hungarian college men who have stopped in Pittsburgh on their motorcycle tour of the world.

They are Zolton Sulkowsky, 27, and Gyula Bartha, 28, who left the University of Budapest in August of 1928 and decided to see the world.

For them there is no adventure in the United States, with gas stations on every corner, after their experience in Australia where the next station often was 1,500 miles away.

SAWDUST USE CHARGED IN WINE BRICKS

Inventor Here Declares Manufacturing Rivals Resort to Cheating

Karl Offer, inventor of the wine brick, stopped in Pittsburgh today on his way from his home in San Francisco to New York. He explained the purpose of his visit was to investigate alleged infringements of his patent rights by certain Pittsburgh retailers who, he declared, are selling grape flavoring bricks composed in part of sawdust and other impurities.

The brick which Offer developed some eight years ago is the same that caused recent legal difficulties in New York and other cities.

Offer, a native of Alsace-Lorraine and neither a chemist nor a winemaker, has devoted his time to the making of dried grapes, removing 78 per cent of the water and leaving a brick containing 98 per cent grape sugar, tannin, pectin and mineral salts.

The brick is sold for the making of grape juice. Offer explained, declaring the printed warning on the package against allowing the juice to ferment has been proved legal. He said:

"By a queer quirk of the law, wine making is illegal, but fermented grape juice can be made without violating the law."

STRANDED CATS RESCUED

Two stranded cats in different parts of the city were rescued last night by a fireman and a crew of the Duquesne Light Company.

A cat in a precarious position on the end of a fire escape on the side of a building in Fifth avenue, near Wood street, was released after a fireman had marched to the scene with a pole to lower the escape stair.

After four days of futile meowing and fretting another prowler who had ventured too high in a tree in Shetland avenue and Truett way, attracted the attention of an unidentified woman who enlisted the aid of the Duquesne Light Company. A man was sent to climb the tree and the animal was freed.

CAN PROBLEM KEY FOUND

Miss Edith Lower, of 1336 Fourth avenue, Coraopolis, has patented a process for canning corn which she says will solve a problem on which canning and tin plate companies have expended more than $1,000,000 in vain to master.

By cooking the corn on the cob at designated temperatures something she says which has never been done on a commercial scale incidental to canning, those properties are retained which impart the natural flavor and those eliminated which cause iron sulphide to result from chemical reactions after canning.

COMFORT for COLICKY BABIES

with Castoria's gentle regulation

"The best way to cure colic," says a famous doctor, "is to prevent it." And the best way to prevent it is to avoid gas in stomach and bowels by keeping the entire intestinal tract open, free from waste.

But there's one thing to remember, here. A tiny baby's tender organs cannot stand harsh treatment. They must be gently urged.

This is just the place Castoria comes to a mother's aid. Castoria, you know, is made specially for the delicate needs of babies and children. It is a pure vegetable preparation which is absolutely harmless. It contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics.

Children never fight Castoria. They like its taste and the relaxed comfort its gentle regulation brings.

For many years it has helped mothers through trying ordeals with colicky babies, with children suffering from digestive upsets, colds and other little ailments. Keep it on hand for your children. You can always tell genuine Castoria by the name Chas. H. Fletcher.

Chas. H. Fletcher.

CASTORIA

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT

25¢

For 25 cents you can telephone to friends, relatives or customers as far as thirty miles away. For example: from Downtown Pittsburgh to Butler, Greensburg or Beaver Falls. And calls to more distant points are also inexpensive.

The service is fast, clear, dependable—the calls easy to make. Just give the number to the operator, ask Information if you don't know it, and "hold the line."

TELEPHONE

You purchase shoes, fruit and candy. You call for cigarettes.

It's like this: WHEN YOU GO TO BUY A PAIR OF SHOES, you examine the leather, the way the shoes are made, their shape. You try them to see if they fit—if they satisfy you.

Why not follow the same method in purchasing your cigarettes? You want cigarettes that are made from the very best tobacco—mild, ripe, sweet. You want them made right. You want them free from harshness and bite and "pinches." In other words, you want cigarettes that satisfy you.

WHEN YOU GO TO BUY FRUIT—oranges, grapefruit, apples—you want ripe fruit, fruit that has matured before being taken from the tree; fruit that has been handled right and packed right; fruit that's the same throughout—not green on one side and ripe on the other.

Why not apply the same test in purchasing your cigarettes? You want cigarettes made from tobaccos handled right by the farmer—ripened, sweetened in the sun and cured right. You want cigarettes that taste the same, day in and day out. You want them pleasing in taste—mild and satisfying.

WHEN YOU BUY CANDY, you want to know, above all things, that it is pure. Is it real candy or are there a lot of other things mixed in with it? And you want it fresh. You want it freshly made and you want it so packed as to reach you just as it was when it was made.

Why not apply the same test when you buy your cigarettes? You want a cigarette that's pure; for purity counts in cigarettes just as it does in candy. Then again, you want a cigarette that's just as fresh as when it was made.

Now, if you apply to cigarettes all the tests that you apply in buying shoes and fruit and candy you will purchase CHESTERFIELD like millions of other smokers.

First, because tobacco men will tell you that in Turkey, Kentucky, Georgia, the Carolinas, Virginia, and Maryland, only the mildest, ripest tobacco is bought for CHESTERFIELD—tobacco cured by the sun's pure rays, by the farmers' slow-burning ovens, and finally by great high-pressure steam drying machines. In the tobacco regions where they grow tobacco and know tobacco, CHESTERFIELD is usually the leading seller.

Second, because the carefully selected CHESTERFIELD tobacco leaves are blended and cross-blended. This exclusive CHESTERFIELD blending method is not just mixing together different tobaccos—it is mixing them in such a way as to bring out the finer qualities of each. It's like producing a new and better type of tobacco—tobacco with greater mildness, more smoothness, much better taste.

Third, because the cigarette paper is selected with the same care. CHESTERFIELD paper is the purest, the best that money can buy. Then the cigarettes are made and packed by machinery in clean, sanitary factories. And the moisture-proof, attractive package—free from heavy inks or inky odor—comes to you just as if you passed the factory in the morning and took your CHESTERFIELDS from the machine.

Good . . . they've got to be good.

POOR DIRECTORS HELD LIABLE

That Directors of the Poor who placed insurance for the Allegheny County Home at Woodville through their own agencies are responsible to the county for any profit they may have realized from these transactions is the opinion of the visiting committee which has filed its preliminary report in Quarter Sessions Court.

Insurance policies for the county home were awarded, the report shows, in many cases through the agencies of Director H. H. Dixon and in several instances through that of Director J. C. Miller, checks being made payable to his son, J. Clyde Miller, Jr.

Hollywood Football Season Will Last Until Players Get Hurt or Get Job

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5.

Backlot football has made its appearance again at the United Artists studio.

Almost every morning now, Douglas Fairbanks and a mixed crowd of actors and ex-gridiron stars choose sides and indulge in rough-and-tumble scrimmages. They have timers, linesmen, a referee and all the trappings, even to the squeezed lemons during time-outs.

This sport started last year and proved very popular among the young bloods of the film colony.

Yesterday, two teams of seven men each were captained by Johnny Mack Brown and Chuck Lewis, both ex-all-Americans. George O'Brien led the interference for Johnny, while Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., was on Lewis' team. Johnny Weismuller, swimming star, played in the line. He wore kid gloves to protect his hands.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

Herman Brix, well-known shot-putter, was referee and Doug, Sr., temporarily out of the game because of a cold, was head linesman. According to Doug, the season will last until they all get hurt or until somebody is lucky enough to get a job.

HE UPS TO THEM

WALKED INTO SOMETHING

There's money to be made in paste jewels. Seven years ago, Willy Peterson and his wife, both from Denmark, walked from New York to Hollywood. He got a job making artificial jewelry to be used in the films. Now he has a thriving business and lives in an 11-room Norman French house.

MAE'S COMEBACK

It is definitely assured now that Mae Marsh's comeback will not flicker out with one picture. After many tribulations, none due to Mae, "Over the Hill" has been completed, and Fox has assigned the former Griffith star to play one of the five principals in "Devil's Lottery." This is the Nalbro Bartley novel. Sally Eilers and Charles Farrell are to be the young lovers of the film, while Greta Nissen and William Pawley, who played the brother in "Bad Girl," also are in the cast. Hamilton McFadden directs.

LATEST GOSSIP

Perhaps he is kidding, but Charles Ruggles is telling it about that he will hire a bus and take Brother Wesley's whole wedding party to Agua Caliente after the ceremony. . . . The Marquis Henri de la Falise is laid up with flu. . . . Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champ of the world, will open a night club here shortly. . . . that story of mine about the secrets guarded by Hollywood dentists brought a flock of letters tipping me off to certain stars. Sorry, but it wouldn't be fair to use names. . . . Got an advance view of Frederic March's makeup for Mr. Hyde, and it is horrifying. March bolted through the Paramount lunch room and ate in the kitchen. . . . William K. Howard is writing the dialogue of "Surrender" on the set, as he did for "Transatlantic." . . . Hedda Hopper, unhappy woman, yearns to be a columnist. She has written samples and will submit them shortly to syndicates.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The Alvin, for tonight only, will have a monopoly of the legitimate stage business of this neck o' the woods, and will offer "Once in a Lifetime," satiric comedy that gave N'Yawk a long titter last season. There will be matinees, too, on the regular days.

Next week the attraction in th' Alv will be the first of the Professional Players' subscription series, "Mrs. Moonlight," comedy by Benn W. Levy, co-starring Edith Barrett and Sir Guy Standing, an actor of high—well, hah-hah, you finish it—in his profession.

* * *

* * *

The Nixon is laying off today, generating power to give "East Wind" the kind of a sendoff that is sometimes described as rousing. That will be the order of business tomorrow night, when J. Harold Murray, Charlotte Lansing and Joe Penner will help this new musical to make a world's premiere.

The first Theater Guild production of the season will come to the Nixon next week. This also will be a premiere, with Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt appearing in Robert Sherwood's new comedy, "Reunion in Vienna."

* * *

* * *

Warner Brothers have bought Edna Ferber's "Old Man Minnick" as a screen vehicle for Chic Sale. . . . Doug Fairbanks is laying plans for a hunting trip in South America. Bow and arrow and Australian stock whip will be his weapons. The jaunt, in midwinter, will be cameraed. . . . There is a new Gallagher and Shean team, sons of the originals, who will present, on the radio, material formerly used by their fathers.

* * *

Small Timer says that what this country needs is gravy that will disappear, like vanishing ink, when it drips.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(I wear a megaphone for a hat!)

That that professor who got all that publicity by saying that whistlers were morons has a new book due soon! (Catch on?)

That almost every blonde is slightly anemic.

That Omar (Rubaiyat) Khayyam was NOT a tent-maker.

That church marriage in Holland is not legal.

That Millet's painting, "The Angels"—now priceless—was declined by the patron for whom it was intended.

That though they say tobacco cannot be grown in the New York climate, cotton and tobacco are grown at 35th St. and 1st Ave.—and by kids!

Woolsey and Wheeler In "Peach O'Reno"

Arthur Hoyt has been signed for the "Peach O'Reno," the cast of which is headed by Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey and Dorothy Lee. Others in this Radio Picture, now in process of rehearsal under direction of William Seiter, are Kitty Kelly, Sam Hardy, Stanley Fields, Joseph Cawthorne, Zelma O'Neil, Cora Witherspoon, Harry Homan and Mitchell Harris.

Norman Foster Placed In 'The Dove' Cast

Norman Foster, one of the most actively engaged players in Hollywood, has been signed by Radio Pictures to portray the role of Johnny Powell in Willard Mack's stage play of Mexican border life, "The Dove."

La Chandler Completes 'Heart and Hand'

Helen Chandler has completed her leading role in "Heart and Hand." Walter Huston is the star, and Kent Douglas appeared opposite Helen. This marks the eighth picture this year for the actress.

. . . minutes seem like hours . . . the punch to finish the day gone

TODAY, please take a moment to find out why you are sluggish or low in spirits.

It is not rare to be "up and doing" when that body of yours seems to rebel against work or play.

So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living . . . pressure of work and worry.

Those important precious red-blood-cells that mean so much to vitality become lowered in count . . . the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter."

If this is your trouble why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning . . . to are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

It is a great protection to health and physical well-being to keep the red-blood-cell count up to normal. These cells build and sustain—they also remove impurities.

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, pimples and boils.

A'S FIGURE BILL EASIER IN PHILLY

WILL A CHANGE of playing fields make a difference in the pitching of Bill Hallahan and render him less effective in his second start of the 1931 world series than he was when he shut out the A's in St. Louis last week? Mickey Cochrane predicts that it will. The star catcher of the Macks contends that a lefthanded pitcher has an advantage in the Mound City park, that as the hurler makes his delivery the ball is momentarily lost among the white shirts in the center field seats and is on top of the batsman before the latter has a chance to time it.

Mickey Cochrane

At Shibe Park in Philadelphia, on the other hand, the outfield seats are high enough to provide a green background for the batter, and he gets a good view of the ball from the time it leaves the pitcher's hand. For this reason, Cochrane argues, Hallahan will not be nearly as hard to hit in Philadelphia as he was in St. Louis, and Mickey is confident that when the A's go against the Cardinal southpaw for the second time in the series there will be a different result.

ON THE FACE of the returns, Cochrane's contention would appear to be supported by the record of the 1930 series. In that title set also, Hallahan let the Macks down without a run when he first encountered them in St. Louis, holding them to seven hits, but when he tried again in Philadelphia in the sixth and final game of the string he didn't go any farther than the second inning.

However, there was a reason for that. A blister on one of the fingers of his pitching hand caused Hallahan such pain that he could not continue. In fact, he should not have been allowed to start. Another thing. Cochrane's claim that the white-shirted bleacherites give a lefthander an advantage in St. Louis is not borne out by the fact that though Lefty Grove won his game there last Thursday he was pounded for the unusual number of 12 hits. Beating Hallahan in his second start may not prove as easy as Cochrane appears to figure.

WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON is on the road back, apparently. In their well-earned 10-to-7 victory over Carnegie Tech Saturday, their first success against the Plaid since 1927, the Presidents, through two bits of individual brilliancy by Charley Rigney and Stew Wilson brought all the points, gave evidence of team power and good coaching in fundamentals that makes their future look rosy.

Carnegie's season is not ruined by any means, and the Tartan eleven is not to be pronounced a failure on account of the defeat. It was only after one of the hardest fights ever seen here that the Skibos lost to a strong foe, and the lessons they learned from the experience, with the rare spirit they showed in an uphill battle that failed, promise much for the team later on.

WHILE THE PANTHERS, though far from being extended, were showing in new territory signs of their uncommon strength this year by walloping Iowa 20 to 0, four of the teams they are yet to face were going down to defeat—West Virginia, Western Reserve, Carnegie Tech and Nebraska. Counting Penn State, five of the seven elevens to be met by Pitt later have been defeated. Early results don't mean much, however, and as all of those five teams will be primed particularly for Pitt it will be the Panthers' part to take nothing for granted and to be prepared for a fight in every instance. At that, the belief is growing that the team able to stop Pitt this fall will not finish far from the top of the championship list.

PIRATE OFFICIALS SAY the drafting of Outfielder Dave Barbee from Hollywood is not to be construed as making absolutely certain the passing of Adam Comorosky as a member of the Pittsburgh club.

Adam Comorosky

The acquisition of a new righthanded hitter for the outer patrol caused many fans to jump to the conclusion that Comorosky was definitely done here. They figured Barbee had been obtained for the express purpose of supplanting the Polish fly-chaser as a running mate for the Waners.

THE CLUB CHIEFS declare, however, that they had no such plan definitely in mind when they grabbed Barbee. It was simply a case of seeing a chance to get a good prospect in the draft and taking advantage of the opportunity.

Comorosky may go, but if he is sent away it will not be solely because Barbee has been obtained that the step is taken. In the first place, as in the case of any other recruit coming up from the minors, there is no assurance that the Coast League slugger will make good in fast company.

AND IN THE second place, while Comorosky may be on the market, he is not there to be sold at any old price to the first bidder that comes along. If something that the Bucs need is offered, a deal involving Commy will not come as a surprise, but if his equivalent in playing value cannot be obtained for some position that requires bolstering, naturally Adam will be kept right here. The speedy Pole is a player who may settle suddenly and become a consistent star, and he will not be let go for a song.

ANOTHER SUBSTANTIAL BOOST was given to the Knute Rockne Memorial Fund during the recent football game between St. Mary's and Southern California at the Olympic Stadium in Los Angeles when a collection was taken up for the cause, with U. S. C. sponsoring the movement.

The assembled fans responded with contributions that totaled $1,785.45. The game drew a crowd of remarkable size for such an early stage of the season, the attendance being in excess of 60,000. The gate of approximately $100,000 was split equally between the Gaels and the Trojans.

THE PRESENCE OF an unusual number of sophomores in a college football lineup is generally taken to mean that team is not going to be up to par. In such a situation, the average coach will tell you that his season can't be a howling success, because too many of the regulars are playing only their first year on the varsity.

Frank Cavanaugh

One mentor who takes an entirely different view of the matter is Maj. Frank Cavanaugh. The veteran Fordham coach, whose team beat West Virginia Saturday, 20 to 7, says he'd rather have a flock of ambitious, up-and-coming sophs on his eleven than more experienced seniors who have been lionized in their junior year.

"Seniors who have had a successful junior season have a tendency to rest on their laurels and depend on technique, rather than physical effort and the will to win," Cavanaugh says. "In most cases it's hard to get results out of a senior after he has experienced a winning season as a junior. He feels that he's entitled to his position, and doesn't put as much effort into his practice as do the novices. On the other hand, a young soph is in there to win his spurs and is constantly trying to improve himself. The result is that he often outplays the senior, who knows far more about the game but who has lost his spark of initiative and aggressiveness that is so vital to winning football."

UPSETS SCARCE IN FOOTBALL TITLE RACE

By JESS CARVER

The big fellows of college football are proving themselves to be just about as classy as they were touted in pre-season ratings. After two weeks of the season have passed, it begins to look like a tough fall for dark horses. Upsets have been few and far between and the elite of the country have gone pounding along to impressive triumphs.

In the East, we have Pitt, Army, Dartmouth, N. Y. U. and Colgate ahead of the parade. Notre Dame, Purdue and Northwestern are without a doubt the class of the Middle West and they think very highly of Alabama, Georgia and this Tennessee club in the South. The situation on the West coast has not clarified itself as yet; so far St. Mary's seems to be the ace of the pack, although Southern California, Stanford, Washington State and Oregon undoubtedly will be heard from in greater volume later.

Make no mistake about this Pitt outfit. The team that whips it will be right up there when it comes to serving the title laurels in December. The road stretches ahead long and hard, but unless Sutherland's boys do an about face in future tests, I think they'll stay right up there. That line looks to be the equal of any in the country.

NO MAJOR UPSETS

The teams all came through Saturday as they were supposed to, not a major upset being recorded. Locally, in the tri-state area, Wash-Jeff, Davis Elkins, Allegheny, Westminster and Waynesburg kept right on plugging. Geneva gave Bucknell a shock by holding 'em even; Waynesburg proved that the victory over Penn State was no fluke by holding Charley Berry's strong Crimson eleven at Grove City to a tie, and the Dukes came back after the West Virginia setback and nosed out Oglethorpe.

Greasy Neale's West Virginia Mountaineers took it on the whiskers from Fordham, an event that will do the gate at the Stadium here this week little, if any, good. Ira Rodgers, who was out scouting Pitt at Iowa, told me coming over on the choo choo yesterday they'd bring along 4,000 or 5,000 supporters, which will help some. West Virginia continued to show a weakness against forward passes, a defect that was very evident in their game with Duquesne, and the running attack apparently was no more formidable than it was against the local Irishers.

IRISH STRONG

Folks generally were greatly interested in watching Notre Dame in its first game since losing Rockne. Indiana was expected to furnish stubborn opposition, and the Hoosiers did the best they could, which was not enough by EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY: WRESTLING CHAMPION OF THE WORLD FOR 40 YEARS—Milon, of Croton, in Ancient Greece, was wrestling champion of the world for four decades. Within that time he carried away the highest honors in wrestling in six Olympic, seven Pythian, 10 Isthmian and nine Nemean games. He was a man of almost legandary strength and the feats credited to him tax belief. He finally found his master in a shepherd named Titorme, who bested him in an encounter on the banks of the River Fidari, about the first half of the fifth century, B. C.

BAMBINO SEES SPIRIT BIG FACTOR

By BABE RUTH

Baseball's Highest Salaried Player.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5. — If confidence were a sure guarantee of world series success, I think I would have to change right now and agree that this series looks like a sure triumph. I don't think I ever saw a ball club so satisfied that it was on its way to victory as those Cardinals were when they arrived in Philadelphia yesterday for the third game, from manager to bat boy they believe in themselves.

Bale Ruth

Perhaps the answer is to be found in the success which they had in peppering Lefty Grove so hard in the first game, and in Hallahan showing such brilliant form in the second game. But a big part of the answer is to be found in the fact that they proved themselves at least as good as the A's in these first two games.

"If we could do those things in these games why can't we keep on doing it?" was the way one of the C[illegible] put it. [illegible]

A'S STRONG AT HOME

I have been through three world series, and there are times when a player cannot help having his doubts about winning. This usually happens when you fall behind the other team in the first two or three games. You know I was in one series when we did not win a game. These Cardinals lost their first two games in 1928 to the Yankees and in 1930 to the Mackmen.

The Cardinals of 1926 broke even in the first two games with the Yankees, and they won that series. Here are the 1931 Cards also with an even break to spur them on. It is so different from their status after the first two games of the 1926 and 1930 series that the entire morale spells confidence. They figure they can do to the A's this year what Hornsby's Cardinals did to the 1926 Yankees. And I believe this Cardinal team has a better chance to win than any National League team has had since 1926.

The next three days, however, are likely to be tough ones for the Cardinals. The A's will be playing at home, and that gives them a tremendous advantage.

TEST FOR CARDS

The A's seldom lose a series at home. I will be greatly surprised if the Cardinals should take two

CHISOX TAKE SERIES LEAD

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Donie Bush's White Sox continued to treat their National League cousins very rudely yesterday, and by hammering three of the Cubs' star hurlers for a 13-to-6 victory, took the lead in the Chicago city series. The American League Sox now have won three games to the Bruins' two, and need one more victory to take the title.

Kiki Cuyler

REDWINGS PAD SERIES LEAD

ST. PAUL, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—George Puccinelli's home run in the ninth gave Rochester a 2-to-1 victory over St. Paul yesterday, sending the International League champions ahead in the Little World Series, three games to one.

Huck Betts allowed the Red Wings only five hits and had worked the count to three and two on Puccinelli when the Rochester rightfielder parked the next pitch over the left field wall to win the game.

The victory gave Rochester an almost insurmountable lead in the series for the Saints must win four of the next five games at Rochester starting tomorrow, to win.

BARONI LEADS AT SCHENLEY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Fred Baroni, pro at the Oakland Beach Golf Club, Conneaut Lake, Pa., was setting the pace with a 64 two under par, after about three-fourths of the field had posted scores in the first annual Schenely Open golf tournament at the Schenley Park municipal links today. Baroni was out in 35, two over par, but he shaved four strokes from perfect figures in getting home in 29. His card:

Out ..... 5 5 4 5 3 4 5 4—35
In ..... 4 4 3 5 3 4 3 3—29—64

Out ..... 3 5 5 4 3 5 3 4—33
In ..... 5 4 3 5 3 4 4 4—32—65

Earl Super, 39 39—78; Al McBride, 38 34—72; George Colgan, 39 37—76; Joe Ladley, 38 37—75; Fred Brandon, 39 34—73; Al Benedict, 36 31—67; J. Fasciti, 42 35—77; A. Sekay, 41 34—75; E. JJacobs, 37 38—75.

George Parsline, 33 35—68; M. Boerbert, 36 38—74; Whittingham, 34 34—68; Fred Robinson, 37 38—75; A. Benedict, 33 36—69; G. McFarland, 39 38—77; R. Hillis, 39 37—76; Joe Slater, 39 37—76; J. Bruno, 35 37—72; Fred Onofrillia, 34 33—67; JJ. Curto, 37 34—71; F. Bruno, 40 37—77; E. Onofrillia, 34 35—69; J. Hiatt, 34 33—67; W. S. Blocker, 39 38—77; Paul Erath, 38 35—73; J. Conners, 37 39—76; A. Patrick, 38 32—70; W. Bullwinkle, 40 38—78; R. Brown, 37 35—72.

M'KINNEY CLUB CHAMP

Outstanding in Sunday's golf were the coppings of the Longue Vue Club championship by W. E. McKinney, who defeated W. R. Purey, 6 and 5, in the 36-hole final; the ace of F. J. Wilson, on the eighth hole at Stanton Heights, which gave him fourth place in the sweepstakes; the club title victory of W. H. Morgan, who beat Dr. C. E. Bruno, 5 and 4, at Hill Crest, and the eleventh victory of John Graham in the South Hills Country Club championship. Graham defeated W. A. Donahue, 3 and 2, in an 18-hole final.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Attorney Fred Lowenthal, well-known in sports, theatrical and library circles, died yesterday of pneumonia contracted shortly after returning from Europe two weeks ago. He was 52 years old.

Lowenthal was head football coach at the University of Illinois before the arrival of Robert Zuppke. He had previously gained renown as an all-America center.

Lowenthal acted as a special sports writer for the Chicago Evening American. He also served as attorney for the Actors' Equity.

NICK RESORTS TO OUIJA

By NICK ALTROCK

Baseball's Funny Man

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—Well, folks and kiddies, here is Uncle Nick again talking through his Eugenie hat. Yesterday was one of those typical Philadelphia Sundays when you could hear the waves at Atlantic City coming in.

Nick Altrock

At that, the town is jammed full of baseball fiends. A friend of mine from Leavenworth, Kan., got fallen arches just walking around trying to find a room. One hotel finally rented him a pool table for a bed, provided he would sleep behind the No. 7 ball. Personally, I am enscorned in a luxurious suite, only it is too noisy. I guess the desk clerk thought I asked him for a parlor, bedlam and bath.

I promised to spend all day worrying over who would pitch the third game, and I have just scraped it off my outfa board that Grimes 'll put a saliva into circulation for the Cards. (Spit is such an ugly word, you know.)

I would also like to tell you who will do the flinging for the A's, but if Connie Mack doesn't know himself, you can't expect me to know either. Because even if I picked Lefty Grove, Connie might countermand it today. That would cost me my reputation as a prophet, and then I would have to make a living telling you folks when the stock market will go up.

HARD TO FORECAST

It all depends on the blister on Grove's fingerdo. Now Uncle Nick can foretell conditions 24 hours in advance with my corns, but blisters are outside my soothsaying realm. If Lefty isn't in the box, then it ought to be Waite Hoyt or Earnshaw. But I am only depending on my bunions

Fans following the fortunes of the Independent Gridiron Conference saw some brilliant games yesterday afternoon in spite of a blazing sun. In the senior conference 8,000 fans watched a terrific struggle at Bridgeville Speedway. Jimmy Rooney's educated toe kicking a placement goal to beat the McKeesport Olympics 3 and 0. . . . The conference was given a great sendoff at East Liverpool when the Potters, staging a grandstand finish, tied West View 3-3. Whitey Dummer early in the game kicked a field goal, and Hinkle put on the Frank Merriwell act with 40 seconds to play.

FIREMEN COP

Joe Morbito, former Carnegie Tech star, and Sharkey made a great difference in the Dan Burns backfield, and the uniter boys beat the East Pittsburgh Firemen, 13 to 3, at the Quarry Stadium. . . . The victory of the Rooneys placed them in the lead of the title race. . . . The Rox Rangers demonstrated their class in the lightweight conference by defeating Glendale, 19 to 0. One of the largest crowds of the day watched Oakland Community hold the Papales to a 7-7 tie. Next Sunday Oakland clashes with Broadway for the league leadership. . . . The Broadway Mounts furnished the big surprise in beating the highly touted Sonny Boys, 6 to 0, at Greentree.

CHRISTY PARK WINS

Allison Park and the Veronas tied, 3-3, the Bloomfield Chiefs and Krieger-Marx played to a scoreless deadlock, Christy Park took over the Armstrong Bulldogs, 18-0, and Whitaker beat North Side Traders, 7-0, in other conference tilts. . . . Take a look at the number of major elevens that already have been clipped from the undefeated column. There is Penn State, Carnegie Tech, West Virginia and Nebraska, all future foes of Pitt; Southern California, California, Duke, Duquesne, Western Maryland, Wash-Lee, South Carolina and Oregon State. Quite a list. And the Irish and Northwestern will do a bit of eliminating Saturday, too. . . . Pitt's Frosh eleven equalled the Plebes by defeating Wyoming Seminary, 13 to 6. The Tartan kiddies blanked Wash-Jeff's yearlings by the same score.

Andy Kerr, now at Colgate, winning renown as a football coach at Old Central High School. . . . Frank Glick, later captain and quarterback at Princeton, one of his stars. . . . Dr. W. D. McClelland, now state athletic commissioner, another of his backfield aces. . . . Big Roberts, the only man who could match Primo Carnera in shoes, at tackle. . . . Gerald Allen, his feet shod with lightning, breaks through, starts sprinting and fumbles with a clear field ahead of him. . . . Dave Munns, another of Kerr's stalwarts.

East Liberty Academy and Shady Side Academy, leading football rivals of local high school teams. . . . Coach Comfort turns out a championship team at Fifth Avenue High. . . . Among his stars are Dave Piller, Alex Brunwasser, Abe Curtis, Tovey and Don Jefferson. . . . Wilkinsburg defeats Fifth Avenue in post-season game at Forbes Field, 13-12, a wide run around end running Fifth's chances for the winning touchdown. . . . Among Wilkinsburg's stars are Bardes, Hileman and Tiny Hewitt. . . . Old Central saddened as Andy Kerr gives way to Coach Bartholomew.

Bill McClelland

Harry Springer leaves Bellevue to coach at Wilkinsburg. . . . Develops championship basketball and football teams his first year there. . . . Tiny (Johnny-on-the-Spot) Duvall gives Wilkinsburg the W. P. I. A. L. basketball championship by tossing a field goal the length of the floor in the final minutes at Trees gym. . . . Doc McCrory, former Pitt star, helps Springer to develop a football winner at Wilkinsburg. . . . Les Biederman, the wideawake sports reporter at Wilkinsburg. . . . Springer's team defeats Turtle Creek Union in great battle at Graham Field as Bodie Love, later a star at Waynesburg, crashes through the line for the winning touchdown. . . . Shine Cortazzo and Simeon Velat star for Union.

Wilkinsburg and Washington clash at Forbes Field in a post-season game for the championship. . . . Wilkinsburg outplayed throughout scores a touchdown in the final quarter on a pass from Burrell Coleman to Tuffy McMillan. . . . Tiny Duvall again proves a hero by kicking the extra point to give Wilkinsburg a 7-6 victory. . . . Bullet Denny, bruising fullback of Washington, the outstanding star of the game, leaves the field in tears. . . . Wilkinsburg cancels a game scheduled with Greensburg and Turtle Creek Union grabs the chance to play. . . . Foxy Miller's team upsets the dope by defeating Greensburg.

Another season. . . . Washington again in the running for the W. P. I. A. L. title. . . . Fifth Avenue, its team built around Joe Basista, later a star at Wash-Jeff, wins right to meet Washington in a post-season game. . . . Paul Liston, Jim Dillard, Farmer Ashmore, Bill Aschbaugh, Herb Creigh and George Parshall helping Washington to another championship. . . . Teams clash at Duquesne University, and it's Basista against the entire Washington team. . . . Angie Brugioff, Fifth Avenue quarterback, calling signals in Jewish to confuse the opposition. . . . Nat Moll, Hymie Labelle, Willie Brugioff and Cliff Ryan in Fifth's starting lineup.

Washington unable to stop Basista. . . . Injuries finally force Basista to retire and Washington takes the lead. . . . Washington leads at half. . . . Herb Creigh, captain and quarterback of the Little Presidents, has an annoying plaster removed from his back between halves. . . . Washington wins the game and the Syracuse Cup.

Another season passes. . . . Westinghouse, coached by O. H. Burton, and Rochester, coached by Pop Grimm, battle to a scoreless deadlock in the Carnegie Tech bowl. . . . Trophies are awarded to both teams. . . . That white-haired kid playing without a headgear for Rochester is Jap Douds. . . . Bus Farmer is Westinghouse's outstanding star at end.

Foxy Miller has a winner at Turtle Creek Union. . . . Allegheny High, led by Jimmy Rooney, New Castle, by Ralph Day, Washington, by Steve Day, and Turtle Creek Union, by Chester Wasmuth, qualify to compete for Syracuse Cup. . . . Two post-season games arranged. . . . Washington smothers Allegheny at Washington, while New Castle, coached by Phil Bridenbaugh and Ziggy Kahn, and Turtle Creek Union battle to deadlock at Forbes Field. . . . Washington awarded championship.

Dan Dougherty

Another season. . . . Turtle Creek Union, on its way to another championship, having beaten Washington, meets a tartar in Johnny Reed's Braddock eleven and succumbs in one of the biggest upsets of the year, 9-0. . . . Turtle Creek protests a Braddock player and relations between the schools are strained. . . . Ellwood City, with the two great MacMurdos, wins the district championship. . . . Freeport (Ill.) High, brought here by Dan Dougherty, teaches Ellwood City a lesson in how the game should be played in a one-sided battle at the Stadium. . . . Elmer Carroll shining as coach at Greensburg High School. . . . And the game goes on!

Gabby Street will sure save Hallahan for the fourth game. After the way Wild Willie folded up the A's, he was sure to be rebooked for his original act. Gabby celebrated his forty-ninth birthday last week, but he didn't feel a day under 70 when Hallahan started walking Athletics in the ninth. But Gabby will still shove him in as a best bet for game No. 4, and ask Wild William to forget the A's are pedestrians when he starts pitching to them.

Gabby has got his team distinctly in the series now, and it didn't take the stock exchange board of governors to make folks stop selling the Cardinals short. As a 100 per cent American League patriot I still stick by my original market letter that the A's will win the series. But they are going to have a harder wrestling match to take those lollypops from the Cards.

TOUGH ON PRESIDENT

President Hoover is coming up to see today's ball game. But he is going to be terribly disappointed when he finds that gold pass our Washington ball club gave him isn't good at Shibe Park. Mr. Hoover likes his baseball hot or cold, but I understand the real reason for his trip is to see 30,000 citizens who have dough enough left to see a world series game.

Last week I said I didn't care who won the series so long as it ended here in Philadelphia Wednesday. I now retract that statement as I left a collar in my St. Louis hotel room, so I want to go back there anyway.

CONFIDENCE AID TO CARDS

of the three games they must play up to Wednesday.

If the Cards can take this coming three-game series, they are a better club than I think they are, and I have no hesitation in classing them as a real world series team, well worthy to compete for baseball's highest honors.

I don't want to infer, when I speak of the Cardinals' confidence, that the A's are not confident. I have not seen them since their return from the West. I merely wanted to stress the great confidence which the Cardinals have in themselves.

SHARKEY BOUT STANDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Jack Sharkey's fight with Primo Carnera will go on next Monday evening at Ebbets Field. The gash received near the crown of Jack's head while boxing with a sparmate last Tuesday will not cause another postponement, it was announced today. Jack didn't want to stop training even after he received the cut but trainers Al Lewis and Tom Pennella talked him out of continuing his work for the day at least.

PALUSO BOXES BOJARSKI AT GARDEN

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Frankie Bojarski, Erie southpaw lightweight, makes his bow as a big-shot fighter in Pittsburgh's leading indoor arena tonight when he takes on the veteran Lou Paluso of Salt Lake City and New York in the 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden.

Lou Paluso

Bojarski still boasts a record of no defeats in almost 50 starts, and he should add Paluso to it. Time was when Lou was a rip-roaring young fellow among the featherweights and lightweights and boxed 'em all coming and going, but it remains to be seen if he retains enough of his old stuff to withstand the rugged young Polishman, who digs a mean left into the body and trades punches until his opponents drop.

ZIVIC TURNS PRO

Carl Montebano, of Braddock, and Jimmy Moore, Negro, of the Hill, middleweights, box the eight-round semi-final. Fritzie Zivic, brother of Jack and Pete, makes his professional debut against Al Reddinger, of the North Side, in the second bout, and Young Chaney, a newcomer from Philadelphia, goes against Johnny Warner, of Clairton, in the opener at 8:30.

Lou Petrone boxes Frankie Chatterton and Matty Oldach meets Joe Latona in two 10-round bouts in Erie, with Lloyd Clements, of Swissvale, engaging Steve Simon, of Erie, in a six-round preliminary. In other bouts tonight, U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, boxes Louis Disantis in a preliminary to a Johnny Datto-Frankie Wallace shindy at Cleveland; Benny McArthur, of McKeesport, boxes Freddie Fitzgerald, of Youngstown, in a wind-up at Wheeling; Jocko Walters tangles with Kid Slaughter at Springfield, O.; Frankie Palmo and Tommy Rios hook up at Huntington, W. Va., and Tony Herrera boxes Young Firpo in one of four 10-rounders at the Arena in Philadelphia, with Lew Massey and Johnny Jadich in the top spot.

THOMAS AT McKEESPORT

The only other professional show of the week in the district brings together Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, and Pinky Silverberg, of New York, in a feature battle at McKeesport, Thursday night.

Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City heavyweight, boxes Charley Retzlaff at Duluth, Minn., tomorrow night. Mickey Solomen, his stablemate, will not appear in action again until after he undergoes an operation for the removal of his tonsils.

RACER KILLED AT SHARON

SHARON, Oct. 5.—Tony Lockhart, 32, of Cleveland, was killed while rounding the hazardous No. 2 turn in a 50-mile dirt track automobile race at the local speedway yesterday.

Jack Casey, Pittsburgh entry, miraculously escaped serious injury when his car crashed on the same turn, ploughed through the grandstand and wrecked two automobiles parked under the structure. Except for a few slight scratches Casey was uninjured.

If you run rapidly into a closed door, both you and the door will receive quite a jolt. But if you push the door steadily, it will open easily without jolt or jar. The same thing is true of your motor. A gasoline that explodes suddenly and erratically will jar and strain your crankshaft.

All of the power coming from the pistons in your car is transmitted to the driveshaft through the crankshaft. It receives more strain than almost any other part of your motor.

Veteran Westinghouse Bowlers in Action Again

W. F. BAILEY D. B. CHARTERS

L. E. SCHUMACHER JOHN RITTER GEORGE RITTER ANDREW F. ROLFE WILLIAM H. SIEMON

HOPE OF NEAR UPTURN LIES IN LEADERS

Vigorous Effort to Cure Economic Ills Urged Instead of Idle Waiting

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The real hope of reasonably near term economic recuperation lies in a recovery of confidence in the capacity of alert leadership to shape the course of events.

There is all too much of the spirit of oriental fatalism about. A more intelligent attitude is to make an unbiased conspectus of the world's assets and liabilities, and set vigorously to work to remedy weak spots and to set in motion forces of recovery. Along this line the attempt at rapprochement between France and Germany is a fundamentally hopeful sign—more pregnant with favorable posibilities than mere statistical changes. For, unquestionably, the lack of economic equilibrium has sprung in part from political uncertainties and from the absence of genuine peace throughout the world.

Mr. Rukeyser

As long as the world could stand the luxury of competition in excessive armaments, it went ahead accumulating troubles. But now when the very solvency of certain old world governments is in the balance, there is a disposition to take remedial measures. One report is to the effect that in his visit to America Premier Laval, of France, will convey the rumored intention of Germany to hold off on battleship construction until the disarmament conference.

If the international political worries were eliminated, the background would exist for a renaissance of confidence and redoubled economic activity.

At home, the need of counteracting deflationary tendencies becomes increasingly apparent. Mere additional outpouring of credit by the Federal Reserve will not do the trick, because high grade borrowers will not use such credit until they see an opportunity to do so at a profit. Numerous economists think that the federal government should break the deadlock by embarking on an extraordinary program of public works, which would not only release purchasing power to the unemployed and thus regenerate the easement especially if bank credit were employed to help to float a huge federal issue.

Replacement to Help Auto Business in Future

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

AUTOMOBILE PRODUCTION THIS YEAR is unlikely to exceed 2,500,000 units for the United States and Canada. This will be about 1,000,000 units less than in 1930, 3,100,000 less than in the record year of 1929, and 2,000,000 less than in 1928.

The slump in automobile output has been sharp but it does not appear to have been much greater than the general average for all types of industry. The low rate of operations at Detroit has been a major factor in reducing the demand for steel because the motor car builders are among the largest of the steel industry's customers.

The automobile makers have passed their heavy producing season and output is expected to show a gradual decline for the balance of the year. Under normal conditions the peak of activity at Detroit is reached in April and each succeeding month is marked by recession in production. The only recent year which did not follow this precedent was 1928, when the peak was established in August.

Results This Year

STATISTICS FOR THE FIRST eight months of 1931 show that the total output of pleasure cars, taxis and trucks in the United States and Canada was 2,053,478 units. This was 765,668 units less than in the corresponding period of 1930 and 2,391,569 units less than in the first eight months of the record year of 1929.

Allowing for the usual seasonal recession, which reaches its greatest depth in December, it is doubtful if more than 500,000 cars and trucks will be produced in the last four months of the year. This would indicate a total 1931 production of about 2,500,000 units compared with 3,510,178 in in 1930, 5,621,815 in 1929 and 4,601,141 in 1928.

Future Prospects

THESE FIGURES BY THEMSELVES present a discouraging statistical picture but there is a recuperative factor in the automobile trade which has parallels in few other industries. The prospects for 1932 will, of course, be directly dependent on the trend of business for the new year. It is too soon to hazard any predictions on that score. But we can draw some conclusions about the long range future of the industry because one highly important factor will come into operation with the recovery of business which must take place sooner or later.

This factor is replacement. The life of an automobile is short. In times of business stress it is always possible to make the old car serve for another year but eventually the old cars must go to the scrap heap. Families which have once owned cars are not likely to do without them except under the most severe economic pressure.

Several million families which ordinarily would have traded in old cars for new ones have postponed action. An equal number of users of second-hand cars are witholding old models from the junk yards.

When business pulls out of its slump these families will immediately become interested in new cars. The automobile industry will find that it has accumulated an unprecedented volume of replacement business. Unless the business recovery takes place very slowly, it is not difficult to foresee a new high record year in 1933 or 1934. We need only look back to the 4,601,141 1928 cars, 5,621,815 1929 cars and 3,510,178 1930 cars which will be close to the end of their useful lives.

TODAY'S GAME IMPORTANT

By CONNIE MACK

Manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, Winners of Five World Titles

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—After a pause of two days, the world series will be resumed at Shibe Park this afternoon. So far, each combatant has won one game and the series is in a deadlock, but as three straight must be played on Philadelphia soil, this gives us an advantage.

Connie Mack

I want to repeat that I never expected to do any better than split even in the first two games in St. Louis. This we accomplished, and we now have three games here in which we have the opportunity to take the lead.

If we capture these three games, then the series will be at an end, and we will not have to go back to St. Louis.

I am rather counting on making another trip to Missouri, and will be satisfied if we take two out of three games here. That will make the count three victories for us to two for the Cardinals, and we can retain the world title by winning one more game in St. Louis.

CARDS FIGHTERS

The Cardinals are a fighting team and have proved that they are better than they were last fall. They have a hustling ball team, and in Pepper Martin they have a most colorful and inspiring player, who will have to be closely watched by us.

You might say that Martin beat us singlehanded on Friday, although you must not overlook the lion-hearted pitching of Bill Hallahan, who pitched with machine-like precision, and never once got off his stride.

Martin scored the first run in the second inning by stretching into a double. This is usually an easy play for Al Simmons, beau ideal of outfielders. He is constantly holding the fleetest of greyhounds to a single on this kind of a hit.

Martin seemed to hesitate, and actually paused a split second after reaching first, and then set sail for second on all cylinders. Simmons was not prepared for the move, and in his anxiety to cut off Martin, actually slipped and fell, and Pepper had no trouble making second.

KEY GAME TODAY

He followed this coup by making an audacious steal of third. He selected the right pitch to deal the Athletics this facer, for Cochrane was on the ground when he threw. That enabled Pepper to tab the first run on Jimmy Wilson's lengthy fly to Haas. He would have scored anyway, for Gelbert followed with a single.

The spirit of the Athletics today was superb, but they have every confidence in their ability to beat the Cardinals.

Both Grove and Earnshaw feel they will win the next time out, and we still have Walberg and Hoyt in reserve.

Nevertheless, we do not underestimate the Cardinals. Gabby Street has a fighting team and will press us to the limit.

I think the key game will be fought in Philadelphia today, and, if we win, we cannot very easily ever lose the lead again.

GRAYS DEFEATED

EAST PALESTINE, O., Oct. 5.—The Homestead Grays went down to defeat here yesterday before the East Palestine club, 9 to 8.

The Coach's Viewpoint

By Howard Harpster

Thousands of words have been devoted each year by the various sports writers to describing clever and unusual bits of football play, but it is a rare occasion indeed when very much is said about the even more frequent "hard luck" plays, unless they are of national interest such as Roy Riegels' fatal hard luck backward run in a Tournament of Roses game.

Every football game is filled with misfortune or bad breaks for one or both teams, and in many cases the so-called "breaks" determine the outcome. During the few years that I have been connected with football, I have witnessed and heard about many "hard luck" plays. Following are a few of the more unusual ones.

A few years ago, when it still was within the rules to pick up and run with a fumbled ball, a comparatively small and unknown college was having a big afternoon at the expense of the Navy team. With only five minutes remaining to be played, the smaller school was leading, 6 to 0. A final savage drive had carried the ball to the shadow of the Navy goal and another touchdown seemed certain when a first down was gained on the Navy's three-yard line. There was time for just one more play as the smaller team's fullback took the ball and went crashing through the center of the line.

The Navy stands were quiet because the fullback had made the three yards and his momentum was enough to carry him across the goal. He crossed the line and fell heavily, but, alas, somewhere between the one-yard line and the goal he had lost possession of the ball, and, as the final gun sounded, a young Middie by the name of Lloyd had started on a 103-yard run for the tying score.

When, a few minutes later, the goal was kicked, the scoreboard showed: Navy, 7; opponent, 6. You may call it what you will, but I call it hard luck.

A play which for downright hard luck will rank with the best, although it had no bearing on the result, occurred last fall at Beaver Falls with my own team, Geneva College.

Passing from behind his own goal line, my quarterback completed a fine throw to one of our backs, who took the ball on the three-yard line and proceeded to run 97 yards for a touchdown. After crossing the goal, the runner turned and saw the official calling him. Taking the ball back, he learned that just before the throw had been made the quarterback had stepped back over the end zone and that, instead of his having scored a touchdown for our team, our quarterback had scored a safety, or two points, for our opponents.

Yes, the halfback was angry, but I believe it was more because he had run 97 yards for nothing, rather than that we had lost the touchdown.

STEEL SLUMPS TO LOWEST IN 16 YEARS

Rail, Chemical and Tobacco Shares Hardest Hit as Selling Waves Jolt List

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP.)—Waves of selling again swept through the securities markets today.

The setback Saturday, after the market had shown a better tone on Friday, appeared to have caused a fresh wave of discouragement. The volume of fresh selling was somewhat perplexing to brokerage circles however, and drove share prices to still lower levels untouched in recent years.

Rails, steels, chemicals and tobaccos were conspicuously weak in the share market. United States Steel dropped 4 points to the lowest price since 1915, when it was carried up briskly by the beginnings of the war boom. Santa Fe Railroad dropped about as much, breaking below par for the first time in seven years. Union Pacific touched par for the first time since before the war.

Uncertainty over the prospect of a general election in England continued to keep the London market unsettled and large offerings in the New York market from abroad were again reported. The Paris market was weak.

Domestic offerings also continued large and despite the belief in some quarters that stocks are definitely on the bargain counter, investment buying was described as cautious and on scale down. The weekly surveys of the investment advisory services were cautious and conservative.

Rails were unsettled apparently by growing skepticism in brokerage circles over the prospect of any real relief from the increased freight rate plea on which a decision is expected this month. It is taken for granted in some quarters in Wall Street that an effort to reduce railway wages will be made.

The publication Steel advancing the publication of its weekly review from Wednesday to Monday, reported that ingot output this week would advance slightly from last week's rate of 29 per cent capacity.

Short term rates were unchanged. Call money was offered in the outside market ¼ of one per cent under the official rate of 1½ per cent. A slightly firmer undertone was indicated however, by quotations on Federal funds of ⅝ to ¾ of one per cent, against ½ to ½ late last week.

GRAIN PRICES RECEDE

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Fresh downturns in grain prices early today accompanied lower quotations on securities. All deliveries of corn reached a new low price record for the season. Wheat declines were in the face of almost 5,000,000 bushels decrease of the amount on ocean passage. Opening ½ cent off to ⅛ up, wheat afterward held near the initial range. Corn started ⅜-½ down, but later rallied.

Wheat and oats as well as corn outdid the season's low price records. Big receipts of corn here, 451 cars, compared with 197 at this time last year, had an immediate bearish effect. On the price setbacks, however, buying increased, causing wheat and corn to rise temporarily to above Saturday's close. Offerings of wheat at Liverpool were reported smaller, especially from Argentina.

Forbes

By B. C. FORBES

HOW MANY PEOPLE will be thus reproaching themselves in 1933! If I only had bought when prices were so ridiculously low in 1931!

B. C. Forbes

There is just as overwhelming reason for buying now as there was for selling in 1929.

When there is such a discrepancy between the market value of the securities of these non-rival corporations whose stocks are quoted in the market at a lower total value than the amount of cash and marketable securities on hand. Not only are costly and efficient plants rated as of no value, but as worth less than nothing as measured by current stock quotations.

This is a wholly absurd condition. That it won't last is of course as certain as the rising of the sun.

WE ARE LITTLE likely to enjoy again for years this golden opportunity to buy trustworthy stocks for 25 cents or 50 cents on the dollar.

The situation at this moment is reminiscent of the story about the man who stood on a busy street and offered $5 gold pieces for a dollar—without any buyers.

IN MY 27 YEARS' intimate association with the financial world of America I have never known such abject cowardice, such blindness to opportunity, such childish lack of vision and faith.

The 1907 panic was quickly over. The shock produced by the outbreak of the World War was short lived as compared with this present long drawn-out period of acute apprehension.

America rightly cherishes its record of daring of vision of achievement. Are we of this present generation exhibiting such qualities—such virtues?

BUT THINGS are going on under the surface about which the newspapers have said lamentably little — perhaps because the facts have not been publicly proclaimed.

Investigations I have been conducting reveal that there lately has developed extraordinarily widespread buying of small lots of securities by modest investors. What are called "odd lot" brokers in New York—firms which specialize in furnishing other brokers with less than 100 share lots of stock—admit that they have been doing a wonderfully active business. Hundreds of thousands of shares have been quietly absorbed and paid for in full by investors of moderate means during the last week or two.

One firm, which does not cater especially to small investors, actually shipped one day last week more than 50,000 shares of stock in less than 100 share parcels. On an earlier day this week its shipments approximated 35,000 shares. Another house whose clients usually are investors of considerable means tells me that it is today filling for cash far more 10 share, 25 share and 50 share orders than at any time in years.

THE ONE MAN to whom the financial world looks more than to any other when emergency action becomes necessary told me at the end of last week:

"I'll admit I was worried up until a few days ago. England's plight, before she acted decisively, was very serious. There were certain local situations also, which aroused uneasiness. But the atmosphere has been cleared most encouragingly. It now appears as if the precipitate European selling—sacrificing—of American securities by important foreign holders is petering out. By and by there will be international demand for American investments on a scale never before approached. I now feel distinctly optimistic."

SEVERAL THINGS could and should be done promptly to modify the fantastic pessimism now afflicting this country. The stock exchange governors should forthwith prohibit, for the present, short selling. The eastern railroads having finally agreed upon consolidation terms, the Interstate Commerce Commission should speedily give its sanction. The same body should not delay its ruling on the application for increased railway rates.

Washington authorities should announce a sympathetic attitude towards industry's desire to be allowed, legally, to co-operate to remedy evils and develop stability. The Federal Reserve Board could advantageously issue a statement describing the extraordinary strength of our currency system and explaining the ability of our banks to expand currency on an enormous scale with perfect safety. Leading New York banks, instead of keeping mum, should advertise how strong and liquid they are, how well they are prepared to finance trade expansion. Stock exchanges, too, should give publicity to the impressive volume of demand now coming from small-lot buyers of stock.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK Oct. 5—The bond market declined irregularly today on moderately active trading.

The downward movement was fairly uniform among the rail obligations in which a few issues dropped from 1 to 2 points.

With the exception of the fourth liberty 4¼s United States government loans were dull but they resumed their decline.

Bethke Downcast Because of Wife's Unfaithfulness

CHAPTER XXII.

I am on my way from the station to visit Adolf Bethke. I know his house at once—he has described it to me so often out there.

A garden with fruit trees. The apples have not all been picked yet. There are a lot lying in the grass under the trees. In an open place before the door is an immense chestnut tree and the ground beneath it is covered over and over with russet leaves, the stone table below the bench also. The pinkish white of the burst, spiky husks, the lustrous brown of the fallen nuts among the leaves.

I take up one or two and look at the lacquered, veined mahogany rind and the lighter colored germinal spot underneath. To think such things exist! I look about me. To think that there is still all this: these gay trees! blue, misty woods, yes, woods, not mere shattered tree stumps, this wind over the fields, without flame of powder or stink of gas; this grass, glistening, plowed earth with its pungent smell, horses pulling plows, not gun-timbers now and following behind them, without rifles, the plowmen, home again, plowmen in soldiers' uniforms.

The sun is hidden by clouds floating above a little copse, but pencils of silver light shoot out from behind them. Children's many colored kites sway high up in the air. Lungs breathe deeply, the cool air streaming in and out—no guns, no trench mortars now; no pack cramping the chest, no belt hanging heavy at the belly; gone from the neck the taut sense of weariness and watching, gone too the half-sinking fear that may be changed within the second to falling and lying and horror and death. I walk free and upright, with swinging shoulders, and feel the strength and the richness of this moment—to be here, to be visiting Adolf, my comrade!

ADOLF DISTRESSED

The door of the house stands half open. On the right is the kitchen. I knock. No one answers. "Good day!" I call. Nothing stirs. I go in farther and open yet another door. Somebody is seated alone at the table—now he looks up, dishevelled, an old uniform, a glance. Bethke!

"Adolf!" I exclaim happily. "Didn't you hear me? Asleep, were you, eh?"

"Thought I'd come over and see you, Adolf."

"That's good of you, Ernst," he says gloomily.

"Something the matter, Adolf?" I ask in surprise.

"Ach, don't ask, Ernst—"

I sit down beside him. "But Adolf, old man, what's the matter with you?"

He parries. "Nothing. I'm all right, leave me alone, Ernst, can't you? It's good, though—it's good one of you has come at last." He stands up. "It makes a man crazy, being alone here like this—"

He remains silent a while then suddenly says once again, "It's good you have come." He hunts about for some schnapps and some cigarets. We have a spot out of two thick glasses with a pink inset underneath. Before the windows lies the garden and the path with the fruit trees. There is a gust of wind and the garden gate rattles. Out of the corner a dark, weighted grandfather clock sounds the hour.

"Good health, Adolf!"—"Good health, Ernst!"

"They come here and talk, my people and her people—and they don't understand me and I don't understand them. It's as if we weren't the same persons any more." He props his head in his hands. "You understand me, Ernst, and I you—but with these people, it's as if there were a stone wall between us."

With his pack on his back and a whole sack full of good things, coffee, chocolate and a length of silk even, enough to make a whole dress, Bethke came home.

He meant to come softly and give his wife a surprise, but the dog starts barking like mad, almost upsetting his kennel. Then Bethke can restrain himself no longer. He runs down the path between the apple trees—his path, his trees, his house, his wife! His heart is thudding in his throat like a sledge hammer. He flings open the door, a great sigh, and then in, "Marie—"

Now he sees her. With his very glance he embraces her. It overwhelms him with joy—home, the dim light, the clock ticking, the table, the big arm-chair, and there, his wife! He makes toward her. But she retreats before him, staring at him as if he were a ghost.

WIFE UNTRUE

He suspects nothing. "Did I frighten you?" he asks, laughing.

"Yes," she says nervously.

"That will soon pass, Marie," he answers, trembling in his excitement. Now at last that he is here again in the room, his whole being is trembling. He has been away from it so long, too long!

"I didn't know you were coming so soon, Adolf," says his wife. She is standing with her back to the cupboard and gazing at him with great wide eyes. For an instant something cold suddenly grips him; it takes his breath away. "Aren't you even a little bit glad, then?" he asks awkwardly.

"Yes, Adolf, of course—"

"Has something happened?" he goes on, still holding all his straps in his hand.

Then the trouble begins. She puts her head down on the table and starts to blub. He might as well know it at once—the others would tell him anyway. She had an affair with a man! It just came over her; she didn't mean any harm, she had never thought of any one but him. Now let him kill her if he will.

Adolph stands there and stands. At last he notices that he still has his sack perched like a monkey on his shoulders. He looses it and starts to unpack, he is trembling; he keeps thinking to himself: "It can't be true, though, it can't be." He goes on unpacking, merely to do something, not to have to be still. The silk crackles in his hand, he holds it out. "I wanted to bring this for you," he says, and is still thinking: "It can't be, it can't be true." Helplessly he holds out the red silk, and still nothing of what has happened sinks into his skull.

But she is weeping and will hear nothing. He sits down to think and suddenly is conscious of a terrible hunger. On the table are some apples from the trees in the garden, good russets they are; he takes them and eats, he must do something. Then his hands become limp and he has understood it. A raging fury rises in him. He must murder some one. He runs out in search of the man.

ORDERS HER OUT

But he does not find him. Then he goes to the alehouse. There the men greet him, but there is an air of constraint; they talk warily, looking past him, choosing their words. So they know it. Bethke behaves as if nothing were wrong—but no man can keep that up. He drinks off his pint and goes just as somebody asks, "Been home yet?" And when he has left the barroom there is silence behind him. He ranges hither and thither until it is late, and at last he is standing again before his own house. What should he do? He goes in. The lamp is burning; there is coffee on the table and fried potatoes in a pan on the hearth.

His wife is there and she is crying no longer. As he sits down she pours out the coffee and puts the potatoes and sausages on the table. But she has laid no place for herself.

He looks at her. She is pale and thin. It all surges up once again, it sweeps over him, sinks him in utter meaningless misery. He wants to know no more; he wants only to lock himself in, to lie down, to turn into stone. The coffee is steaming. He pushes it away, the pan, too. The woman shrinks back. She knows what is coming.

But Adolf does not get up, he cannot. He merely shakes his head and says, "Go, Marie."

She makes no protest. She casts her shawl about her shoulders, edges the pan a little toward him again, says in a timid voice, "At least, eat, Adolf—" and then goes. She is going, she is going, her soft tread soundless. The door shuts. Outside the dog barks, the wind moans at the window. Bethke is alone.

And then the night—

Synopsis

Ernst, who enlisted when a schoolboy, tells the story of a group of war comrades who march home when peace is made, to find everything changed—themselves most of all. They find it impossible to adjust themselves to new and strange conditions. Finally they take up again their interrupted studies at the Teachers' College, but here also they meet with disappointment. They are disgusted by the attitude of the masters, who do not realize the effect of war on the returned soldiers. The principal makes a speech which is ill-received and the first meeting ends in confusion. The men elect members of a Students' Council to present their views on how and what they should be taught.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Otiose Ollie

Woman Gets Man's Name From Postmistress

"His name," Miss Tewkson said, "is Oliver H. Simpson. Leastwise, that is the name on the letters that comes to the box he rented."

Miss Tewkson was postmistress at Haddon Heights. Usually she kept such information to herself, feeling the importance of her "government position" and holding that post-office information was more or less sacred.

But when Mrs. Myrtle Malvern asked her, she couldn't be impolite. Mrs. Myrtle Malvern lived in the big house at the corner, she came there every summer and was quite the leader in everything during the summer season at Haddon Heights.

She had asked Miss Tewkson the name of the young man who had rented the bungalow on the little cliff overlooking the lake.

The young man was good looking. He dressed well. He seemed to be quite polite. When Lottie Malvern had dropped her parasol the day before, while outside the postoffice, this young stranger had picked it up and handed it to Lottie, making a neat bow and lifting his hat. He had also smiled at Lottie.

Mrs. Malvern did not object to having good looking young men bow and smile at Lottie, for Lottie was 26!. Her mother admitted, openly, that Lottie was "going on 20."

It was time that Lottie was married. Mrs. Malvern was quite anxious for Lottie to marry, but at that she wasn't half as anxious as Lottie herself.

VISITS SISTER

This thought came to Mrs. Malvern. Lottie was quite pretty, in a sort of doll-faced way.

"Ah, Simpson," Mrs. Malvern had replied to Miss Tewkson, "there are a great many Simpsons. I wonder just who he is."

"His letters come from New York and Washington and a lot of places. Some are on hotel envelopes and some come in a woman's handwriting," Miss Tewkson informed her.

Mrs. Malvern stopped on her way back to drop in at the very modest home of Mrs. Elvira Hackett. Mrs. Hackett and Mrs. Malvern were sisters. Mrs. Hackett was married to a poor man. Mrs. Malvern had married a man with money. It wasn't as much money as Mrs. Malvern pretended, but there was enough to keep her going comfortably on the income.

"That new young man who is in the bungalow on the cliff, Elvira, is a Mr. Simpson," Mrs. Malvern informed her sister, who was flushed of face and standing over a kettle of deep fat, cooking crullers.

"Yes, I know—comes from Germantown," Elvira said, brushing a wisp of hair away with the back of her hand.

"How did you know?" Mrs. Malvern asked, surprised and a trifle peeved.

"Sue told me."

Sue was Mrs. Hackett's daughter. Sue was 18 and much prettier than her cousin, Lottie.

"Well, of all things! I'm ashamed of you, letting Sue gad about with a strange man!"

INQUIRES ABOUT FAMILY

"Prof. Morton told her," she said.

"Oh!" murmured Mrs. Malvern.

She asked Nora, her maid, when she got home, about the Simpsons in Germantown. Nora had worked there for some years.

"There's lots of 'em, ma'am; some are real rich and some ain't," Nora said.

Mrs. Malvern was pleased with this information. This fine looking young man was, quite evidently, from the wealthy Simpsons, or he couldn't afford to come to Haddon Heights and take that handsome cliff bungalow.

And so Mrs. Malvern put herself out to be very pleasant whenever she chanced to meet young Mr. Oliver H. Simpson.

Sue Hacket, Lottie's cousin, went about town a great deal in weird pajamas. Much of the time she wore no hat at all. She was quite tanned and had some freckles on the tip of her cute little nose.

When Mrs. Malvern and Lottie saw this Mr. Oliver H. Simpson and Sue together in Oliver's car, driving away with a couple of bamboo poles protruding from the back, Mrs. Malvern was aghast, or pretended to be. She went over to see her poor sister.

"I should think you would be more careful of Sue," Mrs. Malvern said, "than to let her traipse off alone in the woods, fishing with that Simpson man."

"And I'm tired and sick of your trying to boss me and trying to lord it over me. I may be poor but I got a good hard working man. You killed your husband nagging him to death and I'm sick and tired of the way you try to patronize me."

MEETS PROFESSOR

"I'm sorry now," sniffed Mrs. Malvern, "that anyone knows we are related."

"That goes both ways."

Mrs. Malvern went home in a most indignant frame of mind. One thing was sure, she would make every effort to get young Mr. Oliver H. Simpson interested in her Lottie. Lottie was kept dressed to the limit and made up, and always prepared to meet and enthrall young Mr. Simpson.

She made fairly good headway. She entertained Mr. Simpson several evenings, gave him an excellent dinner and managed to find some rather choice stuff left by the late Mr. Malvern. Ollie was quite interested, it seemed.

Then Mrs. Malvern chanced to meet Prof. Morton. She had seen him quite often in company with Mr. Simpson.

"I wish, Professor," she said, "that you would tell me all about this Mr. Simpson. You see he is terribly interested in my little girl and I—I want to know more about him."

"What?"

"Otiose — chronically so, I fear."

"Well, for godness sake," Mrs. Malvern gasped. "At any rate, I am grateful to you for warning me. I will not repeat it to a soul."

She hurried home to Lottie.

He is—and it's chronic. Don't tell a soul, but Prof. Morton was good enough to tell me. He said that young Simpson was chronically otiose!"

"Otiose?"

"Yes, otiose!"

"That must be something awful. It was good of him to tip you. I suppose he had seen Ollie calling here. You best tell Sue's mother about it."

"I wouldn't speak to Elviry again—she insulted me in her own home. I'm through with her. Sister or no sister, she's ungrateful for all the advice I've given her."

"Well, if Sue Hackett wants to run her fool legs off to catch a man who is chronically otiose, let her do it, then—but I'm sorry for her," Lottie said.

"Horse feathers!" Sue replied.

Mrs. Malvern closed the big house finally. She was leaving Haddon Heights for the season.

The great house had been her birthplace and the birthplace of her sister, Mrs. Hackett. When Myrtle had married Malvern she bought the old home and had it fixed up. Her sister still lived in a rented cottage. It never occurred to Mrs. Malvern to let her sister use the home during the 10 months of the year it was vacant.

It was in December that Mrs. Malvern and Lottie received announcements of the marriage of Sue to Mr. Oliver H. Simpson.

Sue also dashed off a note to Lottie:

"I married Otiose Ollie," she wrote, "and we are darned happy, although it is absolutely true that he is terribly otiose."

She and Lottie went back to Haddon Heights the next summer.

SUE EXPLAINS

It belonged to Sue and Ollie. As soon as Mrs. Malvern heard of it she went to see her sister, but learned that her sister and husband now lived out some twenty miles on an immense farm, a gift to them from Ollie.

Sue saw the old house opened up and drove in, or at least her chauffeur drove in for her, in the great and glittering car.

"We were in Europe all winter," Sue said, "and Ollie had the summer home built for me."

"How—how is he—his sickness?" Mrs. Malvern asked, with a pitying glance. At least she tried to make it pitying, but it was plainly envious.

"He is still otiose—he always will be. A man with his money can afford to be," Sue explained.

"Wha—what do you mean—afford to be?"

'If you had looked it up, Aunt Myrtle, you would have found that 'otiose' means being at ease or rest, having nothing to do. Ollie, with his several million, can afford to be at ease."

The Poor Board Report

Charges made against the County Directors of the Poor—Maj. J. Clyde Miller, Dr. W. L. Henderson and H. H. Dixon—are substantiated in the report of the board of visitation appointed by Judge James H. Gray to investigate their official conduct.

The committee, composed of attorneys, finds evidence of chicanery in the manner in which the Poor Board let various contracts.

It is charged that the law was violated in the buying and selling of real estate and in the placing of insurance by the directors.

The taxpayers of Allegheny County were forced by the Poor Board's action, the committee of visitation reports, to pay $40,831 more for properties adjoining the County Home at Woodville than they should have paid. It is reported that the tracts were sold a few days before the Poor Board bought them for prices much lower than the Poor Board paid.

Evidence is presented that Directors Dixon and Miller were agents for insurance companies with which policies were carried.

The charges against the directors, made by a rival candidate, did not impress many of the voters; for the accused men again won the Republican nominations.

Now that the charges are confirmed by an official committee of investigation they will perhaps receive greater attention from the citizens.

The disclosures also make it desirable that the Poor Board shall be required to give frequent accountings of its stewardship to the public. For years it has carried on its work secretly, and contemptuously rejected requests for information as to how it was spending the taxpayers' money.

The investigating committee's revelations call attention to the danger of permitting public officials to withhold from the public news of what they are doing.

Criticism of Judges

Dr. Day's Attack on the Judiciary Reflects Suspicion of Gang Domination.

The Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, put into words in his attack on the Allegheny County judiciary Saturday what many citizens have been thinking.

Dr. Day found fault with some of our judges because of their subservience to gang politicians, as evidenced, for example, by their failure to deal severely with the gang's election crooks.

Time and again the people of Allegheny County have seen persons convicted of election frauds paroled or let off with light fines.

All the judges fortunately are not partial to the machine politicians. Some of them have shown deep concern for the rights of the citizens to an honest election. But the others are so influential that they have shaken the faith of many people in the integrity of the judiciary.

The reason for this deplorable situation lies in the fact that some of our judges have been closely associated with the machine and, in fact, owe their elevation to the bench to it.

The remedy lies in the election of judges who are independent of the machine. That can be accomplished in only one way—by getting honest citizens to take a livelier interest in politics.

Fire Prevention Week

It Is Well to Keep in Mind That Most Fires Occur In Homes.

This is Fire Prevention Week, and the Fire Department is going to try to make the people more careful to prevent fires.

Business houses and institutions give considerable thought to the fire danger. Householders as a rule are not so thoughtful about it.

Yet over 60 per cent of all fires occur in homes. Sixty-six per cent of the deaths due to fire are in dwellings, and 75 per cent of the victims are women and children.

Are there any bad spots in your house—places filled with trash or inflammable material—where fire might easily break out? Do you have any fire extinguishers handy? Would the members of your family know what to do in case of an outbreak of fire?

Ask yourself these questions, and if you cannot answer them satisfactorily do whatever is necessary.

League Court Blocs

Kansas City Paper Points Out European Political Domination in League Tribunal.

League Court judges lined up politically in deciding the Austro-German customs union case. This opinion was expressed recently by the Kansas City Star in reviewing the decision editorially. The Star added:

"One of the strongest reasons against American membership in the Court is THE DANGER TO THE UNITED STATES in submitting itself to a tribunal packed against it in advance. European nations generally are jealous of the wealth and power of America. THERE IS NO QUESTION WHERE THE SYMPATHIES OF A MAJORITY OF THE WORLD COURT JUDGES WOULD BE IN A QUESTION INVOLVING AMERICAN INTERESTS.

"The United States always has been a leader in international arbitration. It has shown its position by the many special arbitration treaties it has negotiated. But it simply COULD NOT AFFORD to agree to go before the Court set up as an auxiliary to the League of Nations; a court DOMINATED, as now has been demonstrated, By EUROPEAN POLITICS."

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

2—Rapid Transit.
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall, seating at least 15,000.

A Paper Shield

By Nelson Harding

That sound you hear—beside the sock—
Is paper tearing from the shock
As the pugnacious Japanese
Drives through the flimsy shield with ease.

And so the vaunted Kellogg Pact
No, it is just another scrap
Of paper 'twixt Chinese and Jap.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

When Woman Goes A-Wooing

Everything is being lifted off man's fragile shoulders these days—even the burden of courting and proposing. * * *

Men are growing so shy and elusive—and girls so brave and strong AND resourceful! Of course, a girl COULD wait until a man asked her outright to marry him, but she would probably have to go to the altar in a wheelchair, and murmur the responses between her second set of false teeth. * * *

Still, there is the delicate question—HOW shall a girl propose?

"Will you let these capable little hands scatter your pathway with roses, and lift all the cares from your fair, young shoulders? * * *

"Will you give me the right to protect you from wild women, unscrupulous flappers and designing manhunters, and to provide you with imported cigarets and fancy hose, a racing car and pocket-money? * * *

"Say yes, Big Boy, and I promise you shall never have to lift your languid head—not even to powder my back or put the studs in your own shirt!" * * *

Well—why not? When you invite a man to dine with you, you furnish the dinner, don't you?

Then, if you are going to invite him to marry you, you should expect to furnish the home, and pay the electric bills and the income tax. It's only GOOD FORM! * * *

Or perhaps you'd prefer to go to him with a "reference" and a purely business proposition, and say— * * *

"I am giving you a real opportunity, Mr. Gayboy—one that you will never regret — matrimonial insurance. What you need, in your wild, lonely life is a HOME—and a housekeeper. Somebody to take care of you and guard your digestion. Let me be your cook-valet-and-femme de chambre. I will take the job in exchange for my board, clothes and pin-money. No Thursdays or Sundays off." * * *

How WOULD you "Plead your cause?" Because when you make an "offer," you really must have something to OFFER! * * *

This present-day fashion of getting a man where he can't say "No" and suddenly springing the "Let's-get-married!" line on him—and then letting him pay for the taxi and the license is positively cheeky. Be chivalrous—and merciful! Or else, be wise—and let a man do his own courting.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

For a moment I lay there, with my eyes closed, enjoying the friendly familiarity of it all. I am so seldom home—it was good to have a moment when everything was warm and welcoming, from old association.

How often the big bird had awakened me like that with his high, harsh cry. There was a special place by the gray, rail fence where I liked to stand and watch him. Then there was a clump of aromatic weed, and a brilliant patch of lichen on the weathered wood . . . silly, simple things, but they had grown into my memory. The enclosure within was an enchanted spot, overgrown in a dark tangle, filled with vivd gloom shot with sunlight. Through the gloom, tall, pale trunks twisted upward, gleaming like great snakes. In the middle of it, beneath a tree with glossy, leathery leaves and huge, waxy blossoms, the peacock strutted . . . arching his blazing breast . . . turning his vain, suspicious eyes from side to side . . . trailing his ragged, jeweled splendor in the pinkish dust.

Such fragrant dust . . . that pungent aroma of the dry lands where leaf and flower and fruit and dripping gum crumble to a common powder in the long, rainless months. The smell of loved earth—in time it comes to be like the smell of a loved body. And now I had come back to it again. Back to the musky odor of the old yellow rose climbing over the high clay wall where I had played with my dolls . . . back to that narrow, twisting trail that ran, with certain curious turnings, through the tall grass into the fig grove . . . back to the crisp, dry rattle of the palms, moving stiffly in a brief gust of air—

The brief wind died . . . the smell of some strange flower came thick and sweet . . . again the peacock gave that long wild cry—

I opened my eyes.

There was no peacock crying! No rail of friendly wood beneath my hand! No gray, clay wall . . . nor rattle of pines . . .

I was in the heart of the city. Outside the automobiles roared. The air came stale, already often breathed, heavy with tire dust and gasoline. A factory whistle blew—

There was no peacock calling! AND NEVER IN MY LIFE HAD I BEEN AWAKENED BY A PEACOCK . . . NOR PLAYED BESIDE THAT HIGH, CLAY WALL . . . NOR FOLLOWED THAT TRAIL INTO THE FIG ORCHARD!

Yet I HAD heard the peacock call! It was not a dream. It had come after my full awakening. The sound of it was still in my ears . . . the feel of that fence was still in my hand . . . my heart was still warm with the comfort of home-coming. I HAD come home. I could not be mistaken. There is only one feeling like that in the world. That place WAS my home . . . but when . . . WHEN?

My breath caught from sheer terror. What had happened to me in that moment after I awoke, before I opened my eyes? What veil had been lifted into yesterday . . . into the long lost yesterdays . . . and how had it been possible for me to leave my conscious body lying in that bed and slip back to that place where once a peacock called?

And, though I have often thought about such matters, it came to me, with a great, fresh wonder, that the soul is a mysterious thing, with much secret business that we cannot comprehend.

But we might, I suspect, know much more than we do, if we had the courage to believe. For experiences like this strange awakening of mine, come to all of us, even to the dullest and most doubting of us.

Many a man wakes to the call of the peacock . . . sees a strange road winding through solid brick and steel . . . hears a faint voice calling above the city's roar . . . catches a vanishing glimpse of a face that once he knew—

Then, frightened, turns and cries—"It couldn't—COULDN'T—be!"—and so the trail is lost.

CHARTING SEA AND AIR

By Archibald Henderson

The extraordinary and rapid development of aviation during the present century has brought prominently to public notice the question of charting the air as well as the sea. Ever since 1838, when Lieut. Wilkes headed the United States Exploring Expedition, which was occupied for four years, this country has devoted a great deal of attention to the subject of exploring coast lines, determining ocean currents, and preparing accurate charts for the use of navigators. The work of Mathew Fontaine Maury was, while of a pioneering nature, extraordinarily complete and valuable; and the charts he prepared and the exhaustive data he and his subordinates collected, left a permanent mark upon the science of hydrography and marine cartography.

The primary functions of the Hydrographic Office of the United States Navy are to collect, digest and issue essential and timely information to navigators and seamen, to afford them the greatest safety and assure them the greatest efficiency. Ever since this important office was founded, a century ago, this bureau has been supplying those who direct navigation with the most necessary data regarding both land and sea.

It is perhaps imagined that the work of the Hydrographic Office confines itself to the study of the shores of the United States alone. This is not correct; for there have been other countries, and shore lines, ocean currents, pertaining to other countries which compelled study, as these countries had no scientific bureau for making such studies and the known data were very imperfect and misleading.

Naval vessels of the United States, for example, have made surveys in Korea, China, Mexico, Central America, West Indies, Brazil, Uruguay, the North and South Atlantic, North and South Pacific, Indian Ocean and in the Great Lakes. As Rear Admiral Gherardi has recently pointed out, three American expeditions are now at work surveying the coasts of foreign territories. They are surveying in Cuban waters, in Venezuela and in the Gulf of Panama. The United States, through the Hydrographic Office, is constantly making large and valuable additions to a more comprehensive knowledge of the globe.

The service rendered to aviation by the Hydrographic Office is valuable in the highest degree. Studies are being made and charts prepared of currents in the upper regions of the air. Already aviators' maps, air charts, for the coasts of the United States, Mexico, Central America and the West Indies are complete and being issued. A series of handbooks, to serve as air pilots, are now in course of preparation.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Wind in Autumn

Now have the wind's fingers taken
Toll of the poplar tree;
Now lift no cup for the bee.

Unseen, this singer, who passes
Lightly through garden and field,
But by her steps in the grasses
Path of her choice is revealed.

Bend down the asters' bloom,
Setting the thistledown sailing
Out into summer's bare room.

Now has the wind in her going
Fluttered the scarf o' the haze,
Banners of amethyst flowing

Stock Market Conditions

New York Stock Exchange Should Give Up Certain Ideals Because of Prevailing Circumstances.

By B. C. FORBES

THE New York Stock Exchange is entirely correct in contending that an unrestricted market, permitting untrammeled short selling as well as buying, is ideal.

But there are times when the ideal must be sacrificed to the practical, times when theories must bow to actualities, times when conditions necessitate compromise.

WE HAVE REACHED THAT TIME.

Is heavy wagering that depression will go farther—that is the net of present short selling—ideal?

Are the thousand odd bank failures, inflicting losses upon millions of unfortunate depositors—caused in many instances by the tragic pressure on security values—ideal?

Is the dread which frightens millions to live miserly to swell savings deposits in preference to spending normally ideal?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Merrily up and abroad, coming upon Saul Flaum, the bookseller, and we discussed one of the outstanding rats of the town, Later meeting Aimee and Hamish McLaurin, whom I have not seen in years and breakfasting at noon at Lou Schwarz's Mansion.

Motoring with my wife to the Gene Tunneys in Connecticut to drive home their week end visitors, the Henry Sells, a motor cycle constable at Cos Cob waved us to the curb. And all affrighted and silent at prospect of gaol. Yet he merely informed us he was guiding us to Tunney's home.

In the evening to George White's "Scandals," which I think the very best show of the year. And the most celebrities I ever saw in a theater. So at the intermission talking to Paul Whiteman, Constance Talmadge, Marion Davies, Townsend Netcher, Jack and Evelyn Mulhall, Eddie Cantor, Bob Kane and others. * * *

Rudy Vallee rather definitely disconcerted his hooters—of which this writer is a platoon or so—and proved in his theatrical premiere that he is more than a high nasal radio crooner. Vallee in a forthright manner ambled amiably through the "Scandals" revue with hardened old troupers, showing neither amateurishness nor stage fright. He accepted the constant joshing of stage mates with perfect and professional complacence. Those who predicted he would prove a gawkish figure are sneaking up back alleys. His poise, diction and modesty created critical rave next day. * * *

Personal nomination for the most distinguished pair of strollers on the avenue—E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe * * *

On a street in the East 40's is something new in barbershop grandeur. A modest brass proclaims: "Haircutters to gentlemen. Tonsors formerly with the Racquet Club, the Ritz, Paris, and Shepheard's in Cairo." * * *

Incidentally barbers called into aristocratic areas to minister to customers in their homes are no longer receiving these summonses. Such trips resulted in $2 fees for hair cuts and $1 for shaves, with a minimum tip of $1. Fortunates who indulged such luxury were usually those who wished to be in touch with the ticker during the market hours. Now it doesn't matter, so they visit the shops like the hoi polloi.

Eugene O'Neill's proposed three-nights-running trilogy called "Mourning for Electra" is furnishing dinner table talk already. I hope not to see it. "Strange Interlude" gave me enough of his playwrighting from now on. Among intellectuals this is rankest upstartry. Yet I find that as a general rule those who run a fever over O'Neill plays have conniption fits over "The Bridge of San Luis Rey." In other words 90 out of 100 do not know what it's all about. Or am I too noisy? * * *

I notice, too, a musical melodrama is being readied for Broadway. Usually melodrama to music is mawkish or farcical. Jack Donahue's last success "Sons-of-Guns" was an exception. Phil Baker and I bellowed right out loud at that one. * * *

And on the Bowery a sweatered entrepeneur is preparing to open a Gay Ninety beer hall, such as the old Atlantic Garden. There will be sawdust on the floor, prop ladies-in-waiting at tables, bristly haired bouncers and a tiny stage offering tear jerking ballad singers and the like. Only near beer will be served. It is a gag to remind of other days and as a novelty may attract awhile. * * *

Elsie Janis did not remain long after her extended absence from New York. She opened her home near Tarrytown, old friends flocked in—but she missed her mother, who so long occupied the home with her. One night late she was seized by a stinging nostalgia and began calling up friends to tell them good-bye. The next morning she was flying to California. She never expects to visit the house again. * * *

Percy Hammond in a discursive paragraph observes: "Veteran New Yorkers such as O. O. McIntyre, F. P. A., George Tyler, Walter Trumbull, C. B. Dillingham and Wilton Lackeye can remember way back, etc."
